THE 1967 BON • AIR

The resonant voice of
MONSIGNOR BONNER HIGH SCHOOL

DREXEL HILL, PA.

People come to realize things in many ways, and the impact of realization is often overwhelming. Many Bonner student's eyes were opened in January when the news of the death of Mr. Glackin was presented to them. The tragic death had its special effect on every student, but the real and lasting effect on the students involved their thoughts of Mr. Glackin before his accident.

As disciplinarian, Mr. Glackin was subject to the normal student criticism and tempered dislike. And yet he still seemed to convey to the students an atmosphere not of the harsh tyrant but of the dedicated teacher and just disciplinarian. His devotion to Bonner and its students can be no more fully exemplified than by his role as coach of the crew team.

A Mournful Response to Tragedy

In this role, the students saw the true nature of Mr. Glackin, a man for whom any boy would gladly put in that extra effort needed for success. His spirit and confidence in the boys stimulated a similar dedication in them to their work and play.

Mr. Glacklin was also an important personality among the faculty. As few men do, he gained the admiration and trust of his fellow teachers, and never abused these confidences. Always he worked as a true teacher, one devoted to learning, to his students, and to his school, and one always ready to sacrifice a bit more of his time for any activity, even remotely related to his work. This is the role best filled by Mr. Glackin. This is the spirit aroused in each one of us at Bonner in response to this great tragedy.

FOREWORD

To the Freshman, the multitude of sounds throughout the halls of our school are merely the meaningless noises accompanying any assembly of boys. The Sophomore, however, soon realizes their importance. He stems the tide of audio waves, unhindered by his earlier immaturity, and slowly engulfs them. Accordingly, in the third year, the pupil discovers fuller meanings and values they hold for him as an individual in the scholastic society of his school as well as in his daily life. The graduating senior unravels the mysteries of these sounds, providing himself with an endless series of memories containing all the experiences he has witnessed in the past four years. Our book will serve to encompass these sounds and provide the opportunity for such revelations in each member of our class.

POPE PAUL VI

The voice of Christ, amplified

In our little part of the world we seldom think of the Pope as a person closely related to us, but as someone far off to whom we look for leadership and guidance. The truth is that Pope Paul is very close to us by nature of our faith. In his recent visit to the United States, the Pope showed his care and deep concern for us. He has re-awakened in us an awareness of international affairs and, through the decrees of Vatican II, he has proven that the Catholic Church is as active as ever in the world of today. The students of Bonner can look to the Pope not only as the Vicar of Christ and our spiritual leader, but also as someone who understands and appreciates the temporal problems of our time. In a world of troubles it is comforting to know that a man such as Pope Paul VI, as Christ's representative, is at the helm. The trials and complex situations which he has resolved through diligence should be an inspiration to us as well as to all Christians in doing our duty to God and country.

FACULTY

The integral part of any school is its faculty. Individually, and collectively, it acts for one purpose—intellectual development. Our faculty is composed of fine, capable men who exhaust their time and energies for the betterment of the students. Through them we hear the words of wisdom and inspiration. They are the spirit that lends pride to our school and the force that guides us to our goals.

. . . of our diocesan leaders

The job of a good principal entails more than the mere preservation of a scholastic status quo, and, realizing this, Fr. Mahoney has not only seen that a disciplinary and academic forum is maintained, but he has also striven to effect improvements in these areas.

The most significant change in Bonner in the last few years occurred this year. The change, the new rostering system, was designed, at long last, to meet the individual student's ability. No longer is the student required, because of the section in which he has been placed, to take subjects which are beyond him.

Father's active tenure as principal at Bonner has been, and should continue to be, beneficial to the school's development.

PRINCIPAL

Fr. Mahoney consults his new aide, Mr. Marchione, on the academic standing of the senior class.

This has been a year of change. Alterations have been made in the scope of national and international affairs of all kinds. We at Bonner have not been delinquent in this respect. We have followed the mood and the atmosphere of the great Council and are proud to be the first Catholic high school in the Archdiocese of Philadelphia to boast of a layman as vice-principal. Mr. Marchione has accepted the challenge of lay-leadership, and, in conjunction with our new curriculum, has increased his burden by taking on the position of Senior Studies Moderator. His efforts have been a definite aid to Father Mahoney in the administrative and academic fields here. The entire school extends its thanks and admiration to a man embarking on a new frontier, one that must be an outstanding example of modern Catholic ideals and responsibilities.

VICE-PRINCIPAL

Our leading principles

DISCIPLINARIANS

It's late in the afternoon, jug is over and the last students have long ago headed homeward. However, Father Doran is kept at the office checking detention lists and absentee slips which proves that there are two sides to every coin.

Students at Bonner were always the primary concern of Mr. Glackin. He accepted a difficult job with few rewards for the improvements of every boy's character.

Guardians of order

CHAPLAINS

During a short break Fr. Smith glances through the newspaper while Fr. Jordan engages in a telephone conversation. This is a rare moment in the Chaplains' day as they both carry heavy schedules all year.

Fr. Smith clears up some paper work in his office. Besides his duties as chaplain, Father also has undertaken the teaching of religion to several sections each day.

Fr. Jordan is pictured here deep in thought as he dispenses with some of the work a chaplain must do. Father's friendly manner has helped many students to straighten out their difficulties.

The financial problem of the school are the main concern of the business managers. Here Fr. Marcellus and Fr. McGuire are engaged in solving the difficulties of financing money for the Bonner mixers.

Discussion of monetary affairs

The business office is an indispensable component of our school. Through the business office Bonner keeps in step with the times. The able administrators have done their best to assure us of an atmosphere where the scholastic nature is not overshadowed by a mercenary one. Much of the administrators' time and energy is demanded and given freely. Fathers Marcellus and McGuire have given themselves to improve all that affects us. Their spirit and competence are invaluable in assisting in the progress of Bonner. These competent administrators have created an efficient institution, capable of its purposes and intent upon performing them.

The tedious job of accounting for all finances involved in operating a school, seems to be a pleasant task to Fr. Marcellus, whose unceasing devotion to his work is largely responsible for the efficient functioning of the school.

BUSINESS OFFICE

ACTIVITIES OFFICE

Mr. Steckel appears to be deep in thought as he meditates on new ideas for the Spring Assembly Program. It is through his efforts that the assembly program, afforded to Bonner students weekly, has been successful.

Situated on the first floor on the left side of the gym, a well known location to the students, the Activities Office stands as one of the busiest establishments in Bonner. Among some of the responsibilities of this office are the coordinating of weekly assemblies for the students, the scheduling of social activities and the budgeting of funds for extracurricular activities. Under the guiding hands of Mr. Steckel and Fr. Elliott, the Activities Office has performed its functions with a continuous competence. The final result of the work and dedication which these men put in can be seen in the assembly program which is available to the students of Bonner and in the unrivaled prestige of this post. Mr. Steckel and Fr. Elliott are truly to be commended for their dedications and efforts in the betterment of Bonner.

This year's football schedule is purused by Fr. Elliott while Mr. Steckel presents his thoughts concerning the functions of the Activities Office. No doubt, Mr. Steckel must be offering his views about Bonner's Assembly Program, which has been intended to be invaluable in developing the social and cultural dimensions of Bonner's students.

Not all of the work at the Athletic Office is physical. There are times when a cancelled game, or any such calamity, can pin Mr. Sabol to the books for a long tedious afternoon.

Through the spirit and dedication of Mr. Sabol, the Athletic Office has become one of the most active administrative organizations of our school. As Bonner's Athletic Director, Mr. Sabol is responsible for the efficient operation of all sports events, from scheduling to the providing of transportation for all the teams to games and meets. When a problem regarding sports arises, Mr. Sabol can always be counted on for help. His capable assistant, Fr. Jordan, aids him with the enormous amount of paper work.

Under the fine leadership of these two well-qualified men, our sports activities are continuously improving and our schedule is always filled with challenging contests.

Mr. Jack Gottshalk, Coach of the Varsity Football Team.

Mr. George Mattson, Coach of the Varsity Crew Team.

Mr. Louis Piacelli, Coach of the Varsity Soccer Team.

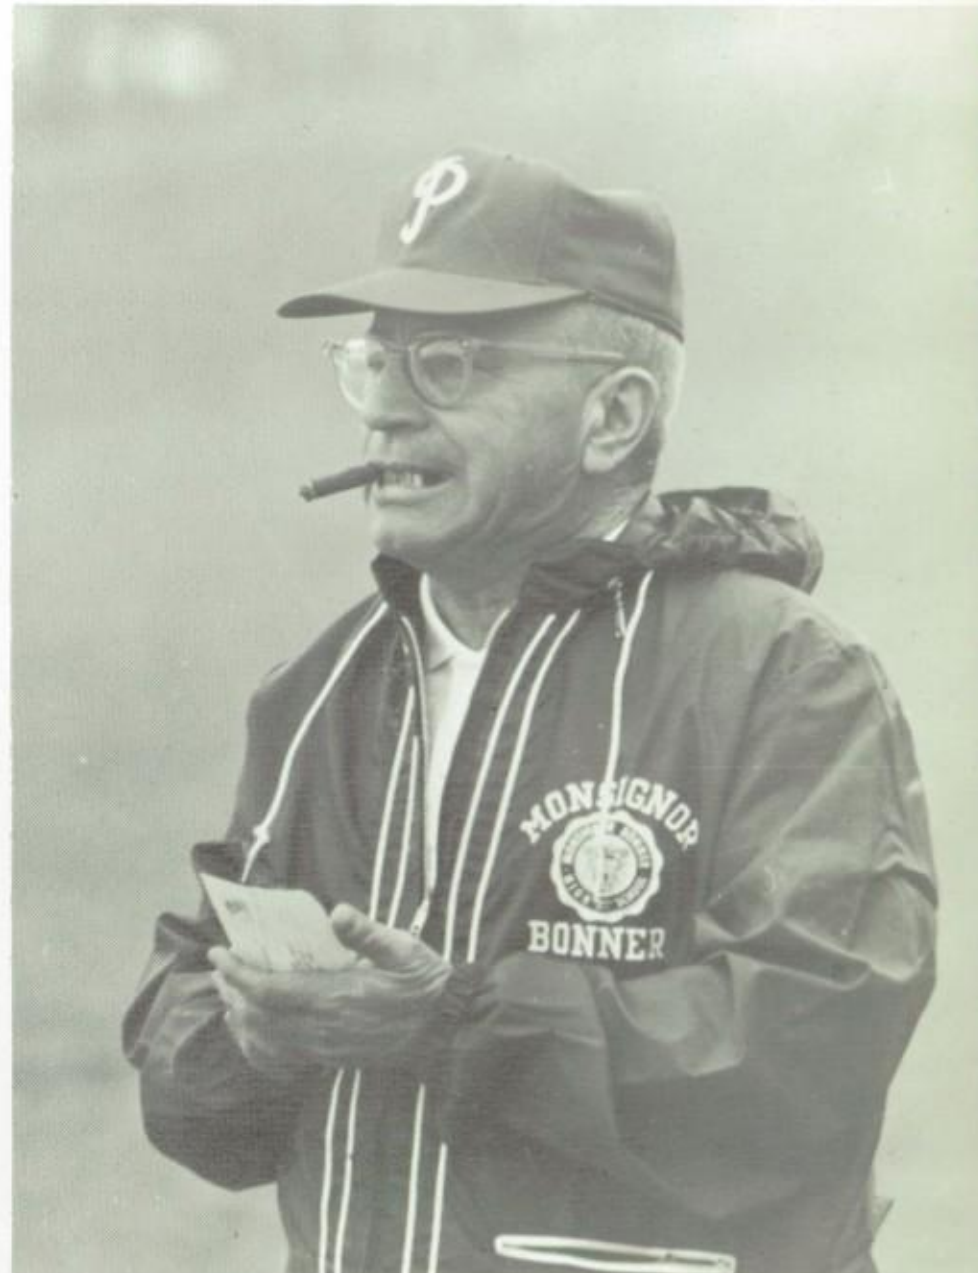

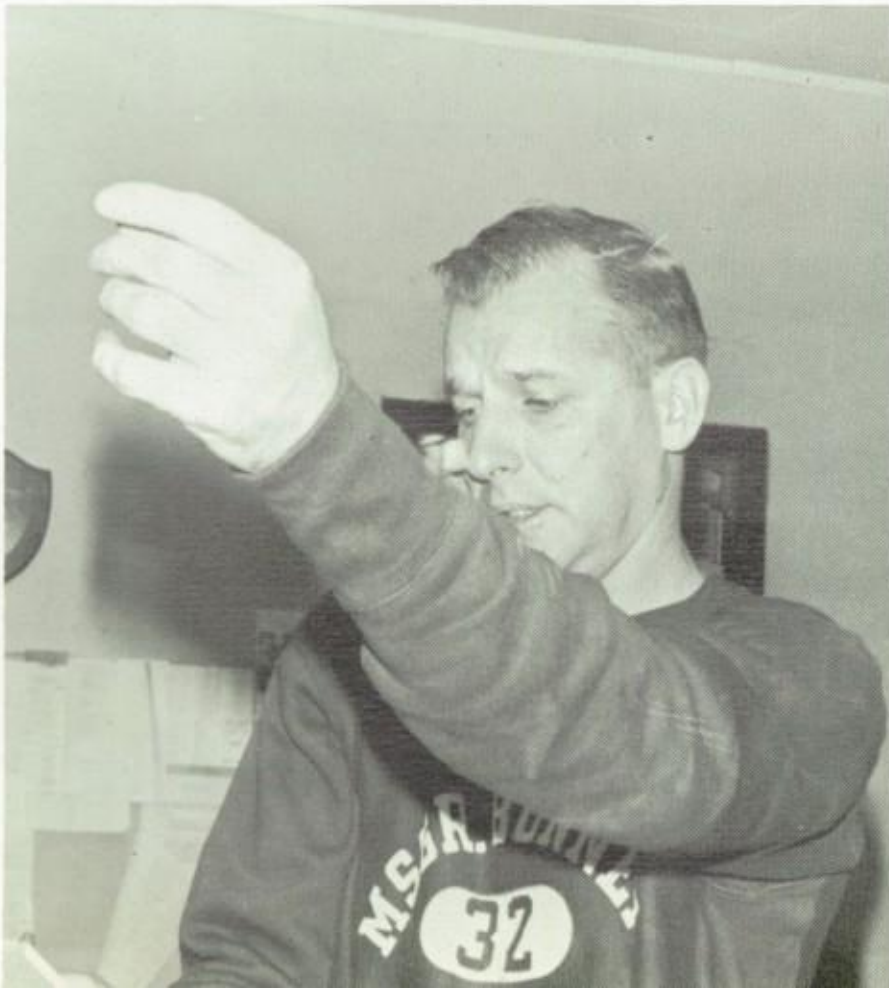

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR AND COACHES

Mr. Joseph Austin, Coach of the Freshman Football Team.

Notes are always helpful in remembering mistakes so Mr. Piacelli always keeps his papers handy—just in case.

Mr. Sabol advocates hustling, especially on the court. Here our camera has caught him hustling over to a soda machine during one of his breaks.

The friendliness and good nature of Mrs. Dorothy McAtee dispel the air of gloom which surrounds the Discipline Office.

Because of Mrs. Roetze's efficiency in the Main Office the school's secretarial work is greatly diminished. Her efforts are a great asset.

SCHOOL SECRETARIES

A secretary's work is never done, and this holds especially true for Bonner's secretaries. Anyone who walks by the main office can see the great amount of work for which these ladies are responsible. These dedicated women are to be lauded for their invaluable contributions to our school.

Anyone who has had an occasion to talk to Mrs. Sara Hill knows what a fine person she is. The Main Office would surely be set back without her help.

Mrs. Margaret Kelly, a hidden performer behind our bustling corridors, makes a final note on an important report about to be typed.

NURSES AND CAFETERIA

Mrs. Burns persists in seeing the results of Bob Coleman's tine test. Luckily he had a negative reaction.

Miss Patricia Thomas has a charming and delightful personality that can cure just about any illness at Bonner.

Two groups of people to whom we owe a tremendous debt of gratitude are the school nurses and cafeteria ladies.

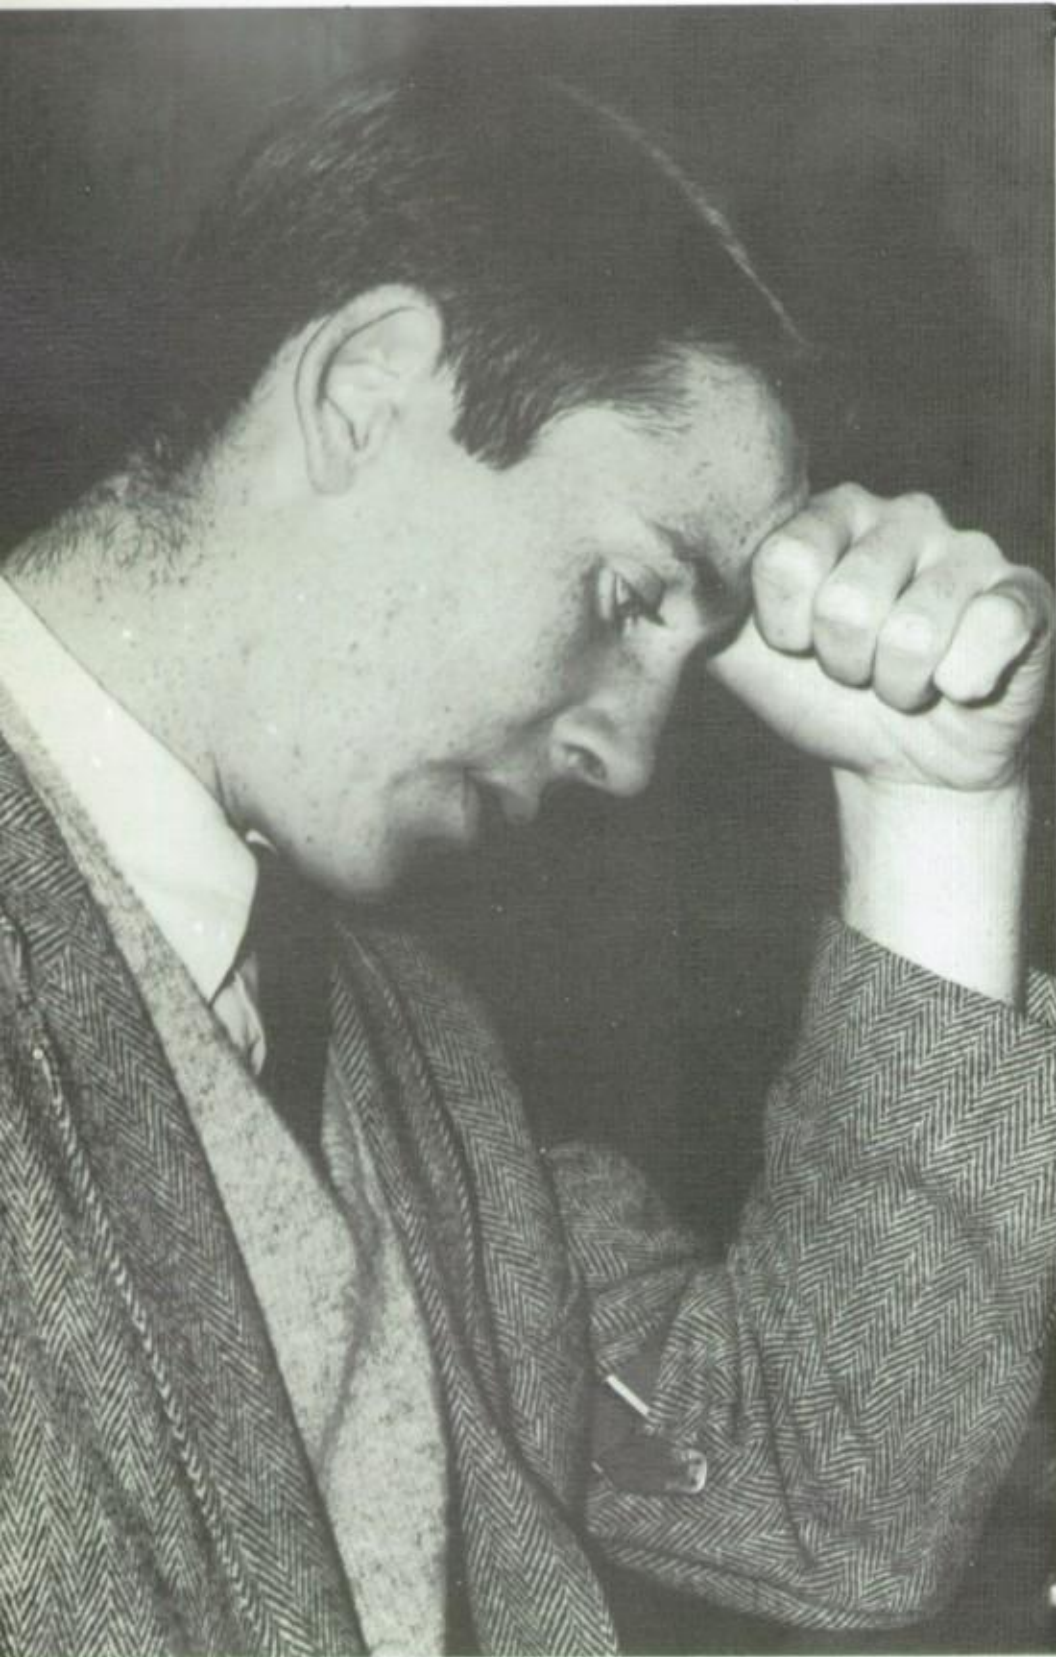

The cafeteria ladies contribute immensely in making the lunch period a most welcomed break in the school day. With the help and dedication of these ladies, students are able to make this potentially hectic period an enjoyable experience.

The school nurses give endlessly of their talents in seeing that the health of each student is at its best. These women are truly to be rewarded for their patience and conviviality. We will long remember these ladies for their assistance during our years at Bonner.

Except for the three o'clock bell, the closing of the Prayer Before Meals is the most welcome sound in the school. For this we can thank the cafeteria ladies who provide us with wholesome meals throughout the year.

ACADEMICS

The sounds of the classroom, amplified by the book, the pen, and the wondrous qualities of the human voice, reverberate throughout the school. These incessant waves, stemming from the classroom and instilled in the spirit of each Bonner student, radiate in such a way that what Academics has placed in the ear of the scholastic molds a man who is an invaluable asset to his school, his Church, and his community.

One of the most noticeable changes that has affected the lives of Bonner's students this year is the new roster system. Under this system each student is evaluated according to his capabilities and placed in a course of study suitable to his qualifications. It was the burdensome task of the studies moderators of the respective classes to set up this system and to see that their formulated plans were successfully carried out. In tackling the difficulties involved in this system, Mr. Marchione, Father Duffy, Father Deegan and Father Sevick offered their talents to the student body, who hold these men in high esteem and gratefully recognize their dedication.

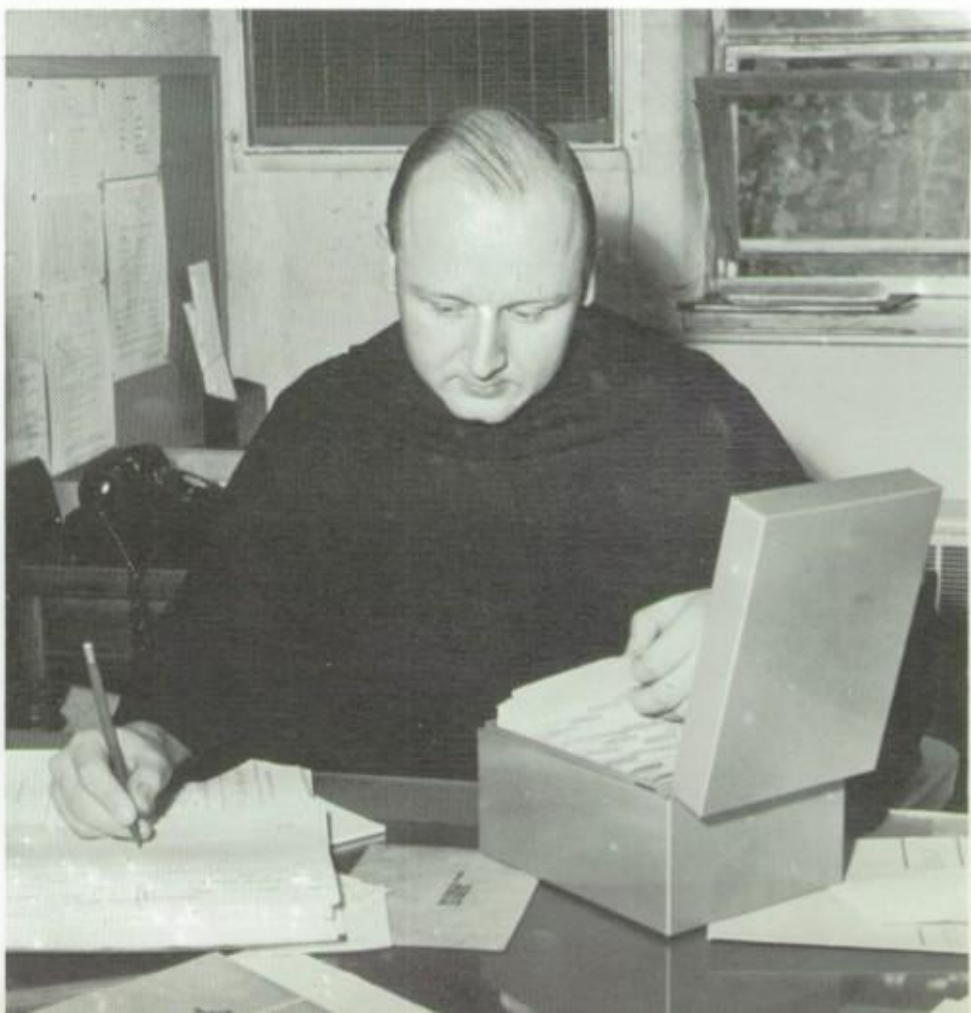

Often overburdened with work, Father Deegan nevertheless finds the time to aid and encourage paragons and fatalities of sophomore study. Students who seek his guidance are often rewarded by scholastic advice which leads them to higher academic achievement.

Fr. Duffy seems pleased as he scans the record of a promising student. He knows that not all the records will be so good. It is his hope and desire that, through his guidance, many in the Junior class will achieve academic excellence.

STUDIES MODERATOR

The academic success of the Freshmen class rests quite heavily on the shoulders of Fr. Sevick. As Studies Moderator, his job is to aid and encourage the Freshmen to improve or maintain their scholastic achievement. Father seems to be doing his job.

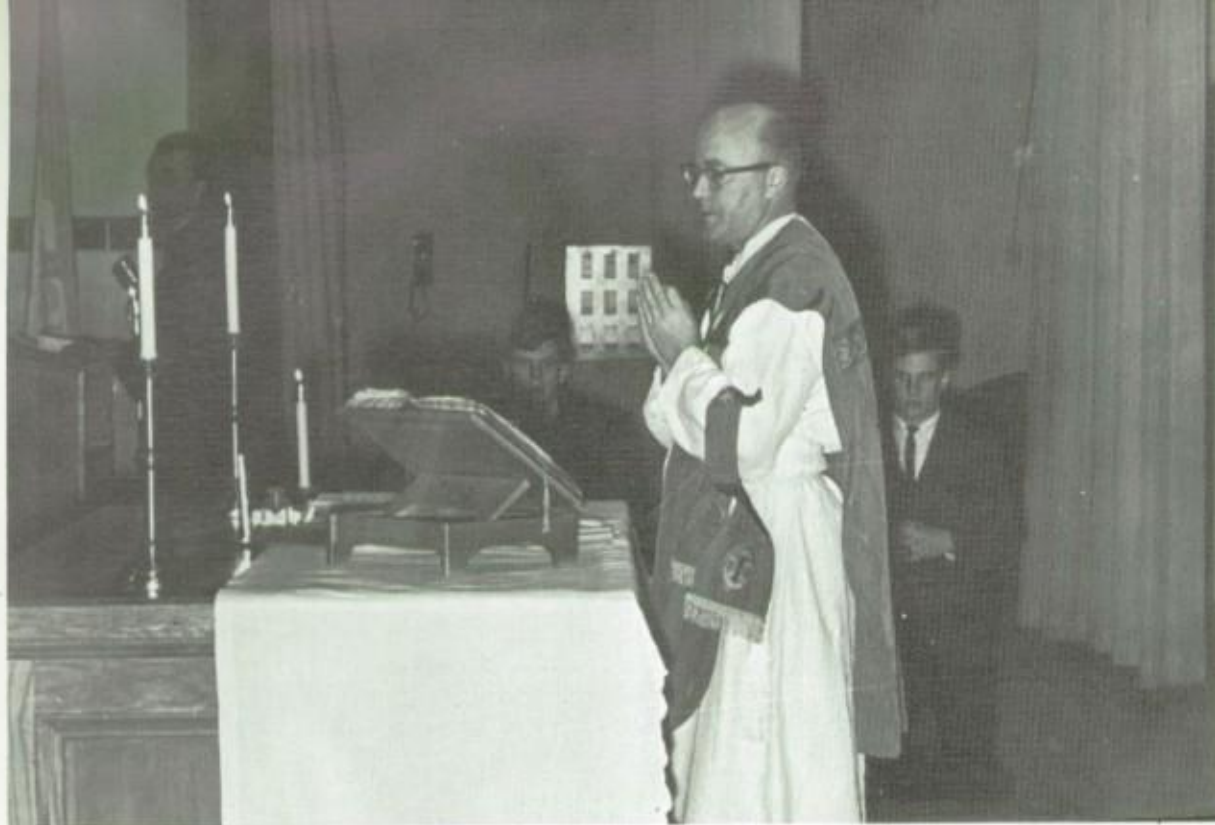

A college admissions officer explains the opportunities that his school offers at the annual Catholic College Night. This function which is sponsored by the Guidance Department is extremely valuable experience for all college bound students in the surrounding area.

GUIDANCE DIRECTOR

Of the many opportunities Bonner affords its students, some of the most noteworthy are those offered by its Guidance Director, Father Melton. In him, the student finds a sea of charity, characterized by dedication and self-sacrifice. Behind the doors of his office one finds a heart ready to receive any person with any problem and a hand willing to guide. Truly, this man is an invaluable treasure of Bonner.

Father Melton busies himself with the endless paperwork that is the trademark of the guidance office.

Weekly class Mass, as celebrated here by Father Burke, is a means which provides the students with the chance to partake in the Sacrifice of the Mass during school hours; thus, it solidifies their religious training of the classroom.

Father Klekotka proposes an interesting problem to these senior apologetics students, who will attempt to solve it through analysis. The apologetics course which is offered to seniors provides a challenging program, which attempts to strengthen one's individual faith.

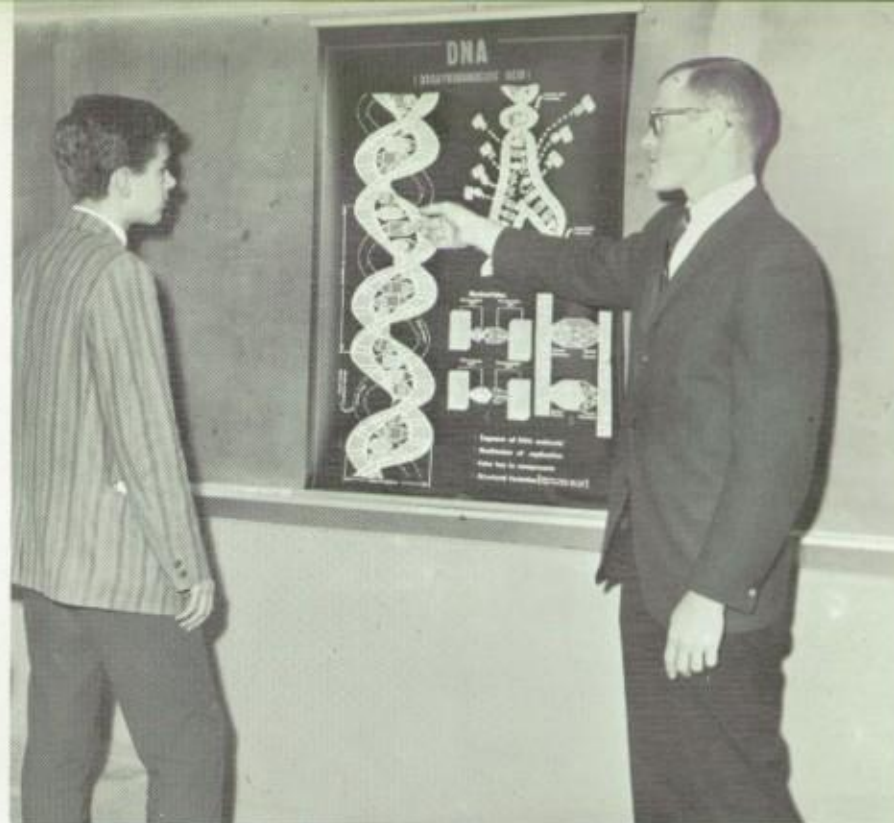

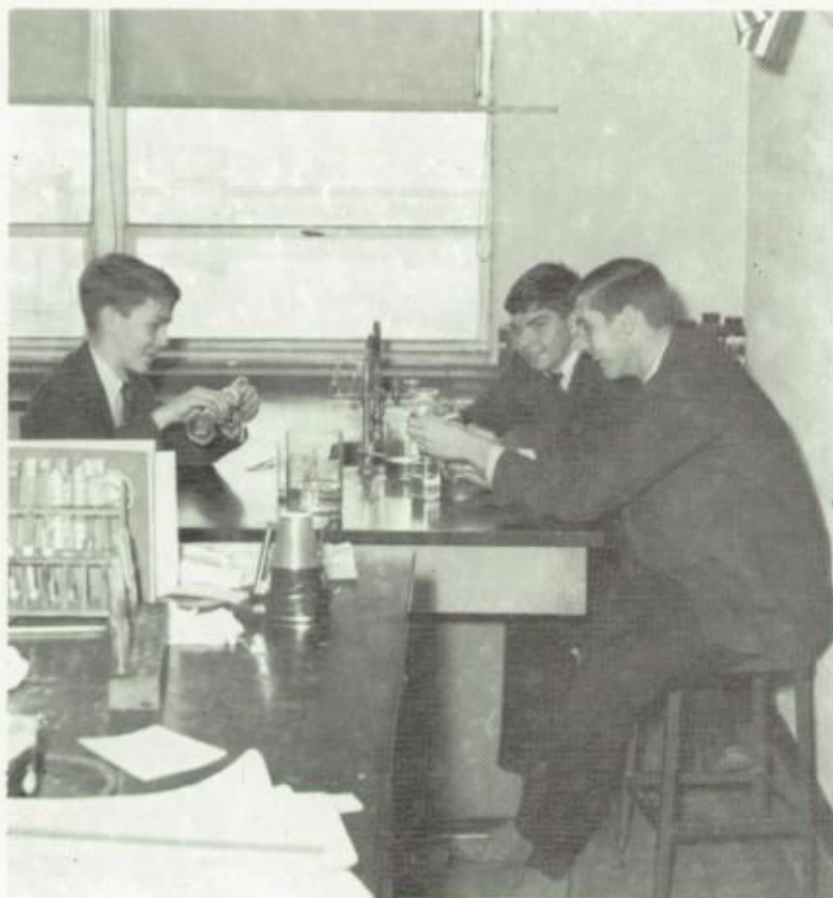

Monsignor Thompson, Diocesan Vocation Director, confers with members of various religious congregations before entering the auditorium to address an assembly of seniors. Monsignor Thompson and others spoke at the assembly before they went out to talk to other students in their religion classes.

"Look here," explains Father Foley as he describes to some questioning students the rigorous life Christ must have led in his travels throughout the Holy Land.

RELIGION DEPARTMENT

"This is the basic structure of life," explains Mr. Coll while describing the D.N.A. chart during a Biology lab.

Zealous in their endeavors to form a basic solution, these juniors are confident their Chemistry experiments will be satisfactory.

The language of the universe interpreted

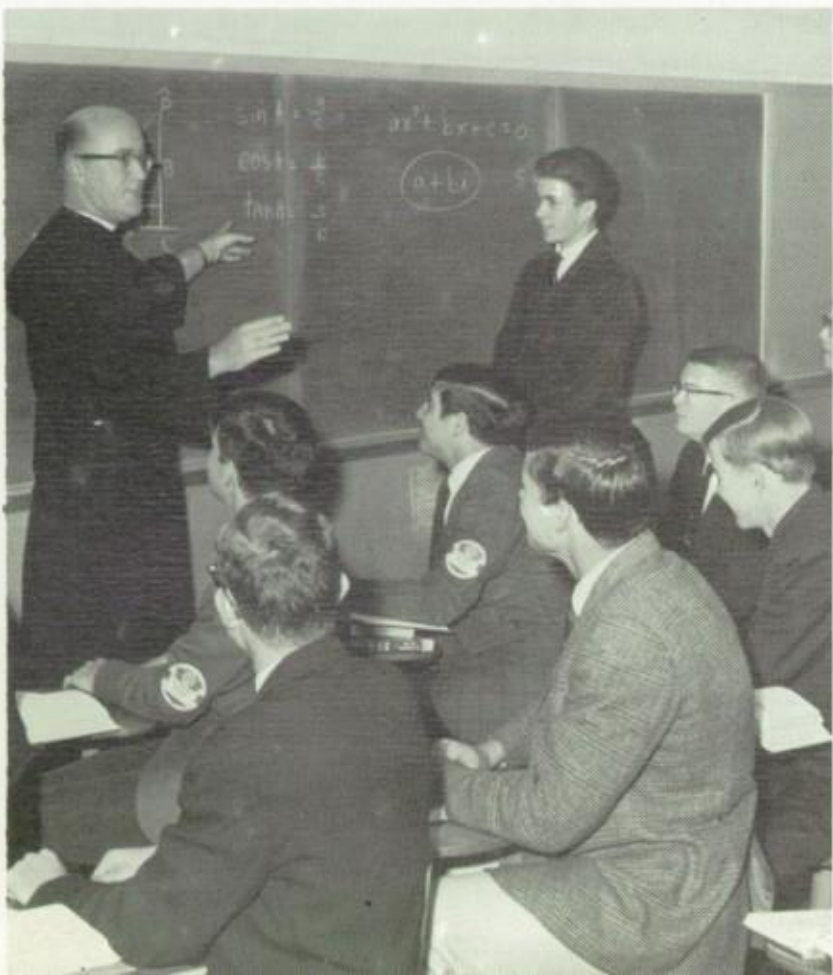

Father Jackson answers questions while P.S.S.S. students catch up on some reading assignments.

The major function of the Science and Mathematics Departments is to make each student aware of his capabilities. By grasping the basics of these fields, the student is capable of learning more about himself and the world around him. The Science Department accomplishes these tasks by teaching, through fact, theory, and visual means, the wonders and mysteries of the world. The Mathematics Department teaches the language by which the student expresses his discoveries in science to others.

Father Burke is trying to enlighten these seniors in the elements in trigonometry. Is it possible?

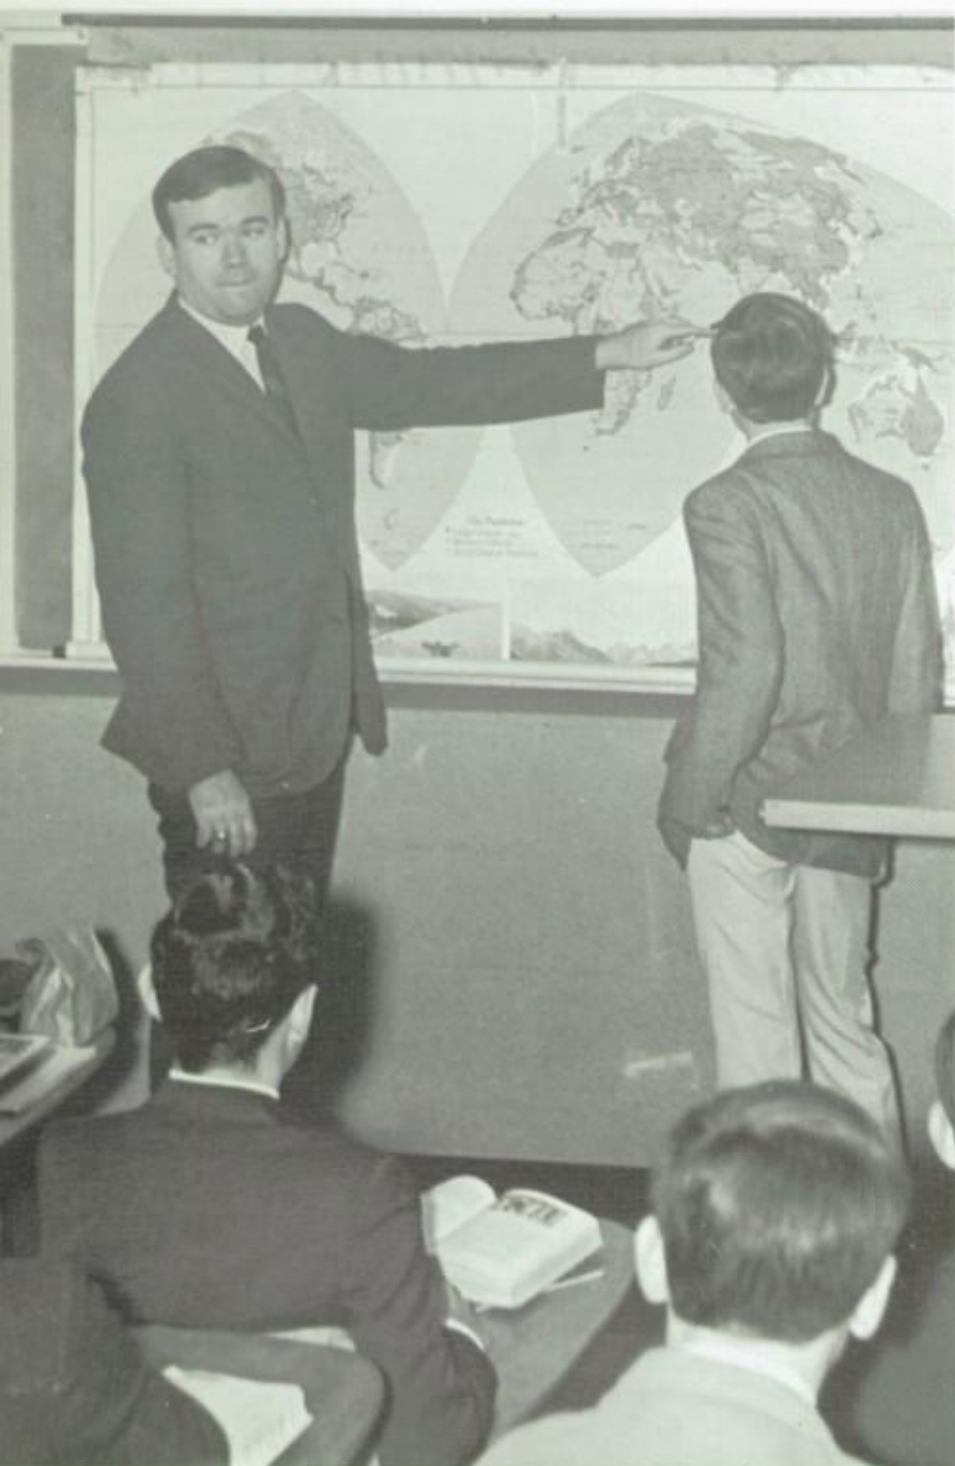

SCIENCE and MATH

Mr. Bell captures the attention of these sophomores during the explanation of the isosceles triangle in his Geometry period.

Mr. Burke explains to a class of Business Law students the correct procedures in engaging in business transactions that they may avoid the pitfalls which may arise later in their lives.

Mr. McLaughlin tries to instill in these freshmen students the fundamental cultures of India and China in order that, by studying the customs of these foreign lands, the value of traditions and peoples may be appreciated.

HISTORY CLASS

Three members of Mr. Sullivan's Economics class present a discussion of the U.S. systems as compared to several foreign systems.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Father Hennigan explains to inquiring Bill Wilson the background of a confusing Shakespearean play. This is an example of the faculty's desire to spend their precious time helping the student body.

Mr. Gettings, a specialist in the field of remedial reading, explains to some freshmen the techniques of reading comprehension. Through his expert skill many new avenues of learning have opened up to the freshmen class this year.

ENGLISH DEBATING

An outside judge confers with Father Ryan during one of the debates sponsored by Bonner. It is through Father's devoted interest in this activity that the debating team has progressed remarkably this year. The endless hours that Father has put in for the team have been rewarded by the outstanding performances of Bonner's Forensic Team at tournaments.

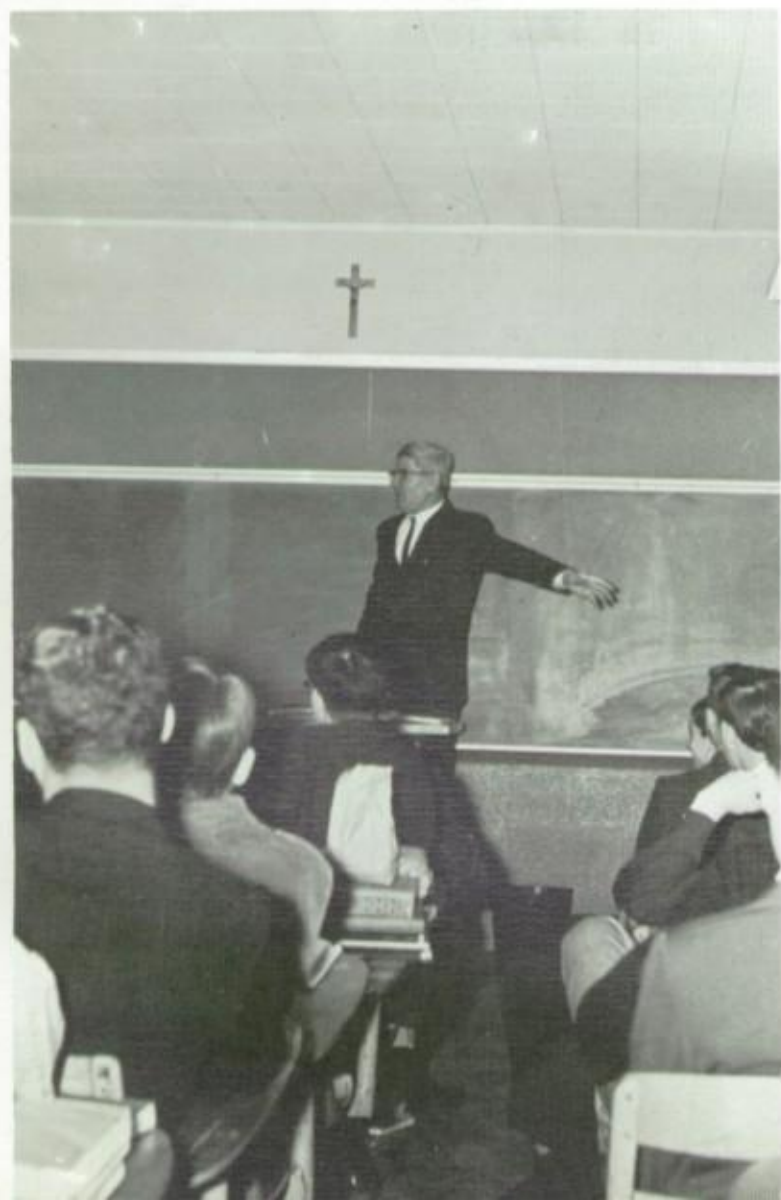

It would not be unusual for a visitor to our school to notice the diversity of languages emanating from the classrooms he passes. This diversity is an essential part of Bonner's scholastic program. The Language Department knows that aside from the scholastic value of the study of a foreign language, there lies in the study a corresponding cultural value. It is the expressed hope of the Language Department teachers that their efforts will be rewarded not only by the students' comprehension of the language, but also by the comprehension of the culture of the people to whom the language is native.

Mr. Concha surveys the work of one of his students as he writes a message to the class.

LANGUAGE

These Sophomore Latin students appear to be deeply interested in Father Van Breda's discussion of Caesar's campaign against the Gauls. Certainly with Father's help in explaining the beauties of the Latin language, the difficult task of translation becomes less of a torment.

"See me after class," Father McGraw seems to be saying as he gestures to a second year French student, who undoubtedly was "delinquent" in his preparation of a previous night's assignment.

"Ist der Lehrer bosc oder frohlich?" wonders an inquisitive student as he is rebuked for an obvious mistake in German pronunciation. From the look on the faces present, however, it appears he purposely made it to the annoyance of the teacher.

Composed of fine musicians under the guidance of Mr. Tumolo, the Bonner Band presents to us their prowess in the field of music. Long hours of individual and group training result in its fine showings in competition.

Hard at work practicing on their instruments for upcoming competition, seniors J. Scarduzio and C. Stanbach illustrate the skill and determination needed to become a member of Bonner's fine band.

MUSIC

The assembly program this year scheduled a weekly presentation by each department and activity in the school. The programs ranged from film strips to talks by speakers from local industries, in an attempt to capture the students' interests and to import some outside influences to make their impressions upon them. Here the band, directed by Mr. Tumulo, performs before a class during the early part of the year.

DRIVER ED

Through the continual efforts of the administration, Bonner's Driver Education Program has proved to be outstanding. The foundation of the course is in the classroom, where the future drivers learn the intricate facts of the road. Numerous devices, which are especially designed to develop excellent driving techniques in the students, are employed in the classroom. The academic facet of driver education, however, does not adequately supply all the necessities for driving prowess. Consequently, on-the-road sessions are provided in order to equip the students with the complementary, and most important, phase of driver education.

These driver education students are employing a device which will enable them to develop an aptitude for judging distance correctly. This is one of the many implements used in this intensive training program.

GYM

With a little persuasion from Mr. Carter these two juniors happily volunteered to demonstrate the techniques of wrestling which is one of the many facets of the physical education program at Bonner.

The rhythmic tunes of exercise

These students are shown here working in the library after school. The library serves as a valuable source of supplementary information on the subjects studied in the classroom. It is beneficial for the students to make use of the facilities such as the library in order to further themselves academically.

LITERARY CLUB LIBRARY

Tom Boyd, J. Gary Waclawsky, and Bill Finnegan are depicted here performing one of their functions as library aides. Besides working in the library, these men are also responsible for some of the presentations at the assemblies.

The members of the Literary Club are assembled to hear Mr. Skivo give them some tips on the magazine they edit, "The New Spectator," which is a unique collection of poems, short stories, and literary essays.

The school's library, under the direction of Father Gill and Father Coumbe, strives unceasingly to maintain its goal of supplying the student with adequate information on all fields of study. The library, therefore, helps the student sharpen his insight, thus filling any gap his education may have left. The library accomplishes this task by providing for the students its excellent volumes, periodicals and magazines in addition to its fine array of audio-visual aids.

The resonant voice of the classroom

A gathering of onlookers seems fascinated by the experiments of an I.P.S. Physics student at the annual Open House Night at the school.

The Spanish Club prepares for one of its weekly meetings. The varied activities and programs of the club have included field trips to several Spanish-speaking places and parties at the International House.

Joe Stout helps Joe McHugh select the right chemicals for an experiment to be completed the following period.

The purpose of extracurricular activities at Bonner is to provide the student with a strong social foundation. Scholastic activities furnish more than a social background, they develop the student by presenting to him practical applications of the curriculum taught in the classroom. In this manner the student participating in these organizations achieves the two-fold purpose of education; first, the student is brought to a fuller knowledge of his course of study; secondly, he presents himself to others as a person who knows how to live graciously with other people.

A dissected fish captures the interest of three students at the yearly Science Fair, presented by the Science Department. The fair gives the student a chance to demonstrate his scientific talents to the enjoyment of others.

Bonner High entered its first team in the Hi-Q program this year. A question and answer quiz, the program is sponsored by the Scott Paper Company. The team members include (front row) Tom Mullin, Angelo Capuzzi, Mario Ercole, and Frank McAleer; (back row) Ralph Skiano and moderator Mr. Marchione.

The members of the Business Club strive to maintain a working knowledge of the problems and intricacies of the economic world. Study of commercial reports and stock market figures enables these students to acquire insight into the complexities of modern business.

Father McGrane stands by while Rick Bohs adds the vital component in an informal chemistry experiment. The other students speculate on the probable results.

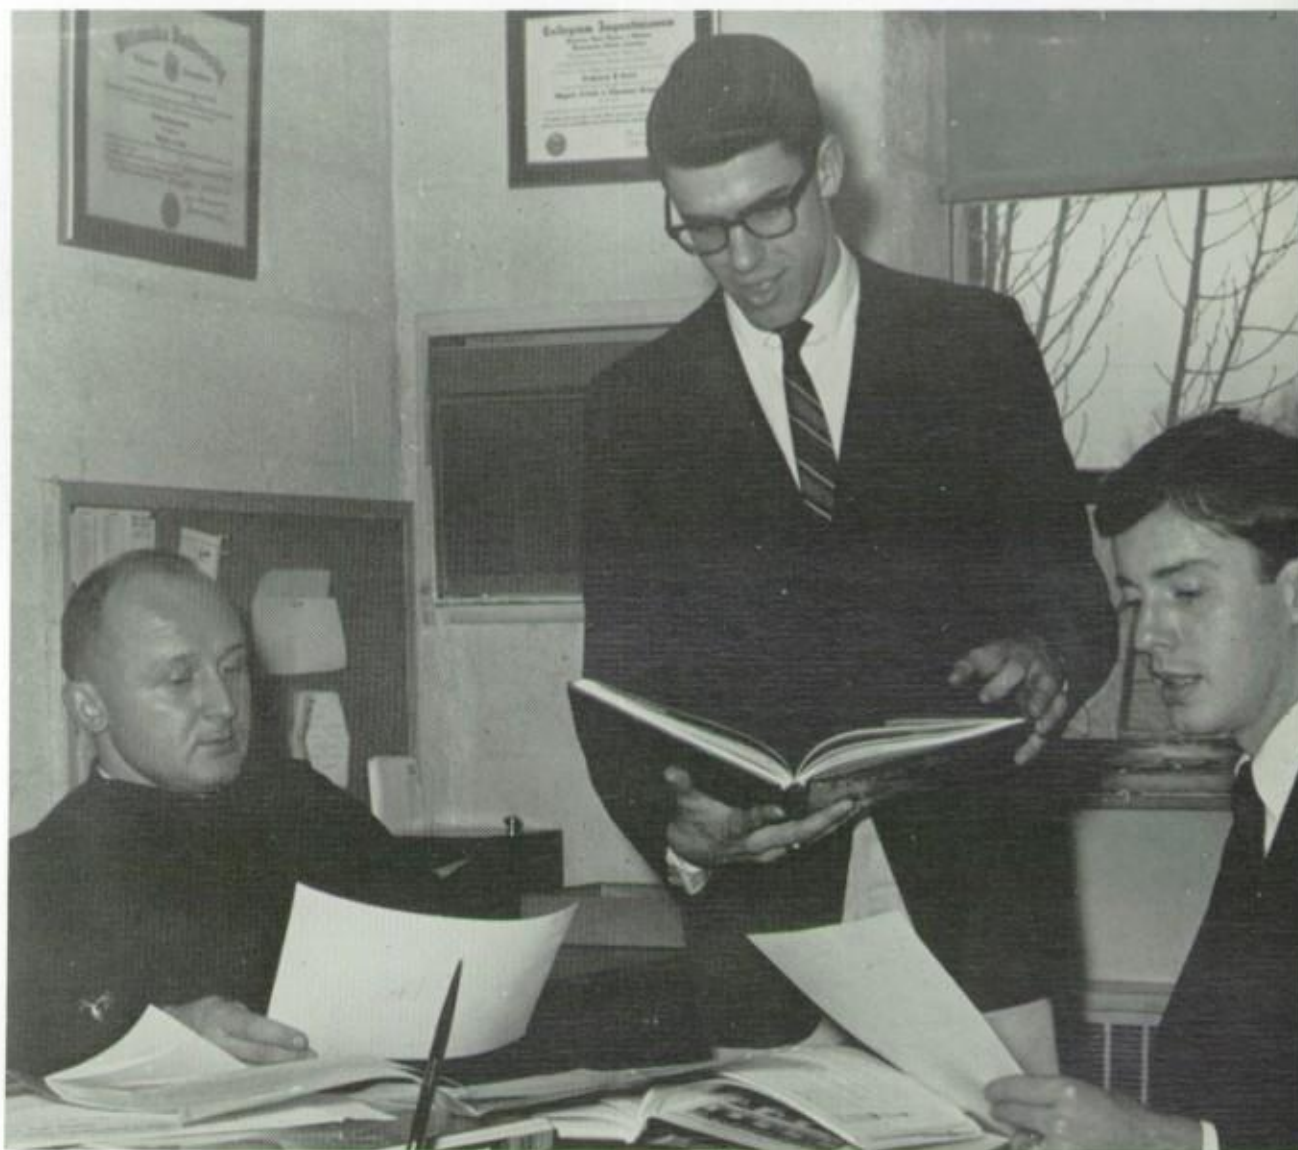

A biology exhibit cops the attention of these students at the Science Fair.

Fourteen members of the staff pause from their never-ending job to poses for a group shot. Their creativity and perseverance have given Bonner High this pictorial history of '66-'67.

"To make the best better" is the motto of the 1967 Bon-Aire staff. Dynamic in its methods of creating a book superior to all others, the theme "Sound" was chosen as the basis upon which the yearbook was developed. The challenging problem of adapting this theme to the book was accomplished through the imagination and efforts of the Bon-Aire staff, who, with intense zeal and dedication, have produced the pages found in this book. Through many extremely difficult problems, the story of the year, which has been presented to the students of Bonner, has certainly merited the praise and admiration it has received from the student body. It is the ardent desire of this year's staff that the book they have authored will set a fine example for future yearbooks of Bonner.

Editor-in-chief Tom Mullin confers with moderators Father Sevick and Mr. Smallberger about the pictures and copy for this dummy page.

Underclass editor Jim McMonigle and Jim McLaughlin ignore the distraction as Tom Mullin turns to answer another member of the '67 staff.

Pat Hickey, Jack Crandley, and Mike Mahoney work diligently at their special assignments for the production of the yearbook.

Contributing their own talents to the making of the book are John Powers, Armando Masciantonio, John Reynolds, Rick Bohs, and Jim McLaughlin.

BON-AIRE '67

THE BONNER BULLETIN

"Leader of the Pack" is editor-in-chief Frank Callahan whose administrative talents merit the admiration of both students and faculty.

Editors, Frank Callahan and Bill McKee listen to the advice of the Rev. Louis Rongione, O.S.A. at the annual School Publications Conference at Villanova University.

On the basement floor, tucked away in the side of a wall behind a gray door, lies the Newspaper office. Unobtrusive as it may seem, this office is dynamically important. It is, other than the yearbook, the only aggregate record of the activities which transpire in the course of a school year at Bonner.

The editor, as well as the staff, has worked long hours after school compiling and drafting their monthly editions. Their job is, for the most part, thankless, but each staff member is self-satisfied with the knowledge that he has contributed something to Bonner in return for all that he has received.

An unusual bit of news captures the interest of Messrs. Foley, Fitzgerald, and Engblom, moderators of the Bonner Bulletin.

As his brother Frank proof-reads a typesheet, Joe Callahan points out a critical mistake to Ed Dunn (standing).

Associate editor Bill McKee puts his finger on one of the Bulletin's major problems, errors in copy. Only careful reading and editorial eye-strain can assure accuracy in the Bulletin's type.

Sounds communicated to the public

ACTIVITIES

As the music of the band reaches the ears of the people sitting in the stands, each student cannot help thinking of the great amount of time, practice, and devotion given by the members of an activity each day. Like these students our talents are developed by association with others of similar interests. Each activity at Bonner helps produce a clear-thinking, responsible Christian gentleman.

Cheering at the games was made easier this year with the introduction of megaphones by the Student Council. This student demonstrates the operation of the complex megaphone.

Various social functions during the year are sponsored by the Student Council. This scene is that of one of the many mixers held on Friday nights in the gym.

As our representatives in the school government, the members of the Student Council, together with their moderator, Mr. Jacobs, have worked very hard this year in organizing drives and advancing school activities. The chief ventures which proved successful this year were the weekly dances in the gym and the bus transportation for students to athletic events. The success of the Student Council has been, and will continue to be, dependent upon the responsibility and determination of its members and of the many students who support the various activities of the Student Council.

Every afternoon outside the bookstore the Booster Club members could be seen painting their popular and inspirational signs.

The Bonner Spirit Committee formed the nucleus of the spirit, which was evident at all our school activities.

The Spirit Committee, working as a branch of the Student Council, raised the school spirit to the greatest height in recent years. The members of the Spirit Committee worked diligently painting inspirational signs, cheering at the athletic events, and organizing the student body's support of the various school activities. The work these men have done for the betterment of Bonner demands and deserves recognition.

The fans in the stands, at both home and away games, were urged on in cheering by the capable Spirit Committee. This Committee was composed of men who willingly and unselfishly devoted their time and spirit to the improvement of Bonner morale. It is hoped that this spirit increases with the years.

Sounds of spirit echoing throughout the school

Serving Mass for the priests at the monastery is the main purpose of the B.B.C. Every morning many of the members sacrifice an extra hour of sleep in order to assist at the priests' Masses, fulfilling their duty to the club.

After the members serve Mass in the morning before school, they are able to sit down to a nourishing breakfast in the breakfast room and prepare themselves for the long day ahead.

The nucleus of this year's B.B.C. was formed by the club's competent officers: Bill Buchanan, Bill Kelly, Paul Brennan, Bill Doyle, Tom Tray, Denny Devlin, Bob Barry, and moderators, Fr. Smith and Fr. Marcellus.

The B.B.C. also makes things brighter for the boys at St. John's Orphanage. These orphans are enjoying a Bonner football game.

Under the guidance of Father Smith and Fr. Marcellus, the members of the Bonner Breakfast Club take time each day to improve the spiritual atmosphere of the school and to instill a real appreciation for the Catholic faith in the hearts of all Bonner students. Bonner Breakfast Club members accomplish these goals by assisting at Mass each morning and by praying the rosary in the Chapel each afternoon. In Christian charity, they also treat the orphans of St. John's Home to many entertaining activities, including athletic events.

In bringing enjoyment to the children of St. John's Orphanage, the B.B.C. members experience a joy within themselves. Their work is not an obligation, but a charitable act for those less fortunate young people at St. John's.

Under the leadership of its president, Bob Barry, the B.B.C. has continued to maintain its high standards, and has had one of its most successful years this year. Bob is addressing a general meeting of the club.

Fr. Marcellus looks on as the orphan boys enjoy the annual Halloween party given at St. John's Orphanage. This is only one of the many events that are planned by the B.B.C. for the orphans.

Awake to the songs of morning

The St. Edmond's Guild holds many parties at the home during the year. These parties bring much happiness to the children at the home, who look forward to them eagerly.

John McManus entertains a few of the boys during this year's Halloween party. These unselfish Bonner men helped to make the season brighter for some less privileged children.

The St. Edmond's children will long remember the Christmas Party, which was only a sample of the widely varied activities and outings sponsored and catered by the St. Edmond's Guild.

Fr. Melton, along with his rigorous duties as Guidance Counselor, still finds time to lead the members of the Guild in their many worthwhile activities at St. Edmond's Home.

ST. EDMOND'S GUILD

The St. Edmond's Guild is a Bonner organization which presents students with an opportunity to perform corporal works of mercy. The members of the guild, in performing these works, lighten the burden of the Bon Secours Sisters' work with the handicapped and mentally retarded. Each weekend, several carloads of "Bonner Boys" give their time to do odd jobs around St. Edmond's Home, and to bring happiness into the lives of the unfortunate children there. Under its moderator, Fr. Melton, the guild has given to the children at St. Edmond's and to the guild's members, many fond memories. In carrying out its tasks, the St. Edmond's Guild has displayed the true spirit of Bonner.

Members of this year's St. Edmond's Guild take time to pose here for our yearbook camera. These men have worked all year to bring happiness to underprivileged children.

These three members of the St. Edmond's Guild show the dedication which has been a trademark of this organization since its initiation.

Unheard sounds of happiness

This group of interested fathers listens attentively at one of the monthly Fathers' Club meetings. It is through these meetings that the fathers are kept informed of the club's numerous activities.

Three members of the Fathers' Club stand with a dejected look on their faces, perhaps after an opponents' score. The men of the Fathers' Club are some of the team's greatest boosters.

The pulse behind the scenes

Here two Fathers' Club members are selling football and bus tickets to spirited Bonner students. The Fathers' Club has been invaluable in their never-ending service of providing help and transportation to Bonner supporters.

The Fathers' Club held general meetings every month in the library this year. This group of fathers is shown planning and organizing a coming activity.

As president of the Fathers' Club, Mr. Burke carries the main burden of organizing its activities. Through his tireless efforts the Fathers' Club has reached its high prominence in the school.

These enthusiastic Bonner fans eagerly climb aboard one of the buses chartered for a football game. It was through the generosity of the Father and Sons Association that many Friar supporters were able to get to the games easily and inexpensively.

A familiar sight on a balmy Sunday afternoon was the gathering of students and Fathers' Club members in front of the school waiting for the buses which would take them to the game.

The Father and Sons Association, motivated by an interest in the education of Bonner students, has made countless contributions to the benefit of the school. The fathers sponsor many important activities of the school. Among these are: Open House, the Bonner Fair, Sports Night, the Communion Breakfast, and many other worthwhile activities. At a loss they rented buses for the students to go to the football games, and in so doing greatly increased the school spirit.

FATHER AND SON ASSOCIATION

These mothers seem to be enjoying the annual Christmas bingo and card party given in the cafeteria by the Mothers' Club. Here they hopefully anticipate that one last number.

MOTHERS' CLUB

Mrs. Canfield and Mrs. Carey display some of the prizes of the Christmas party. It is because of the efforts of such women that the Mothers' Club has continued to be successful in all of its endeavors. Mrs. Carey is the Recording Secretary of the club.

A fitting praise needs reach their ears

With the aid of the moderator, Fr. Duffy, the officers have made this organization a great success. They are: Mrs. Carey, recording-secretary; Mrs. Stumm, treasurer; Mrs. Burke, president; Mrs. Linzi, vice-president; and Mrs. Guaraldo, corresponding-secretary.

The chief function of the Bonner Mothers' Club is to raise money for the school band and library. Thanks to the many activities of this dedicated group of women, such as the Christmas Party and the Bingo and Card Party, this year's band was able to display brand new uniforms, and our library has been endowed with countless new volumes. With the aid of an able moderator, Father Duffy, the presence and participation of the Mothers' Club behind the scenes in many of our school activities has made this outstanding organization invaluable to our school. The students' mothers meet regularly in order to discuss diverse topics with the administration, and possibly iron out some of the many problems which confront Bonner. We owe these loyal women a debt of gratitude for the invaluable services they have rendered our school.

The Mothers' Club is often profitable in numerous ways, and even the less fortunate women enjoy their evenings at Bingo.

ALTAR SOCIETY

These women, after their diligent working all year, go on retreat to get closer to God. The priests show their thanks for what the Altar Society has done by holding this retreat for them.

When the students see the spotless altars upon which the priests say Mass they often fail to realize that their condition is due to the unselfish work of women like these who give up their time for our school.

Among the Altar Society's numerous duties are the sewing, washing, ironing and repairing of the priests' vestments, and the dusting of the altar along with its sacred vessels. Their work helps keep the sacristy orderly.

A quiet service to the Lord

Do you ever think about those who are responsible for helping the needy by sponsoring the various charity drives, or those who prepare the chapel for the reception of the Holy Eucharist during the day? Well, it is the Minutemen who perform these and many other duties deserving our recognition and appreciation.

These two members of the Minutemen prepare the altar for class mass. As they perform their work, they silently offer praise to God in their own special way.

The officers of this year's Minutemen with Fr. Jordan, the moderator, are: James Selfridge, Donald Shoen, and Anthony Morinelli. These men formed the nucleus of the Bonner Minutemen. It was through their inspiration and work that their fellow members were influenced and guided. Their leadership will continue to influence the club and its members even after they are gone.

This member of the Minutemen, having completed his task of setting up the altars, stops for a minute to visit the Blessed Sacrament. This sacrifice displays the true spirit of the Bonner Minutemen.

MINUTEMEN

The music that our band provides is always welcome at all school events. At our football games the band furnishes the tonic which soothes the tension brought about by an exciting first half. Along with this sound of music, there are the skillfully performed halftime shows, in which the band executes many intricate and singular formations, which are enhanced by the newly purchased uniforms. Their presence is not only felt and seen at halftime, but also during the game. Fans, influenced by the rhythm and the beat of the music, clap, sing, and dance in time. After the football season the students are still able to enjoy the band's fine quality of music at Bonner's assemblies and concerts.

Although sometimes taken for granted, our band would be missed if it did not make its weekly appearance at our football games. When the band is on the field, enthusiastic fans take notice. The formations they perform are evidence of their toil.

BAND

The precise maneuvers that are characteristic of our band are under the guidance of the year's drum major Marty Knoblauch. He supervises their practice and is responsible in part for the outstanding performances given at all our games.

Besides entertaining us with melodious tunes, the band also holds our interest by performing their various formations. They can be seen on the field before the game playing the national anthem and during halftime while the contesting teams discuss in the locker rooms their strategy for the second half.

After many daily afternoon sessions, the Bonner Band displays the product of their work in Sunday exhibitions at Villanova stadium. The proficiency of their performance is a delight to all who attend the game.

Music made from clamoring noises

The steps that the Color Guard exhibits at football games are not taken lightly by its members, as these men practice all week long in anticipation of a fine showing on Sunday.

COLOR GUARD

After many diligent hours of work, the Color Guard came to our social activities and shared with us the fruits of their labor. Their showing greatly enhanced the performance of the band.

Whenever one attended a game, he could always be confident that the Color Guard would put on a fine display. May these performances be continued throughout future years.

GLEE CLUB

The high quality of our Glee Club is due mainly to the work of Mr. Diehl and Fr. McGuire, the moderator.

Young voices fill the air

These faithful members, both bass and tenor, meet most afternoons in order to improve their voices for the numerous concerts that occur throughout the year.

The background music at Glee Club practice is supplied by Mr. Diehl at the piano.

Under the very capable guidance of Mr. Diehl, the Glee Club has finally obtained the recognition it deserves. The Glee Club this year succeeded in reaching its goal — perfection. This perfection, though, did not come easily. Many days after school the Club could be heard through the corridors, diligently practicing its songs for its numerous appearances at Bonner and elsewhere. The Glee Club holds promise of becoming one of the largest and most active activities in the school.

CAMERA CLUB

Two novice members of the Camera Club watch intently as Tom Breen explains the intricate details of the camera lens.

In the club's dark room Carl Lind exhibits the method of developing pictures to Bob McGonigle.

Photography editor of the Bon-Aire, Carl Spiron, gives his approval of a negative given to him by one of the members of his staff.

These Camera Club members, composing the photography staff of the Bon-Aire, devoted many hours to the project of producing the pictures for the 1967 yearbook. Here these boys are sorting the many negatives and contact prints which accumulate in the quest for perfection.

*Three in one,
each to a different tune*

When a play is presented at Bonner, it is judged according to the quality of the acting. When the curtain goes up on opening night it is certainly true that the success or the failure of the show is in the hands of the cast, but, unknown to the audience a large degree of success is predetermined by the ever-working Stage Crew. It is these men, behind the scenes, who, through close teamwork, turn out the finished props for almost all the Bonner plays and musicals. These men often lend a helping hand to Prendergast's Art Department. The Stage Crew deserves great credit from all at Bonner.

Behind the scenes of every production shown at Bonner is the stage crew. They are the men who are responsible for the setting, lighting, and general scenery required for a musical or play.

After having finished their work, a few boys relax backstage and watch the performance for which they were responsible.

Some members of the stage crew are shown preparing the setting for a coming play.

STAGE CREW

This year Bonner staged three one-act plays. In the second play of the night, "The Lottery", Ron Pinto gives some words of advice to Walt Hallinan about how the lottery should be run.

The play "Mad Breakfast" completed the entertaining evening. In this scene Joe Jones, who played the part of Mr. Jones, strikes a modest pose and demonstrates his fine acting ability.

"The Lottery" was a most unusual story. It occurred in a small American town where the people gathered in the town square once a year to hold a lottery. It has a very unique ending as the winner, or loser, of the lottery is stoned by the rest of the townspeople.

The cast of "Parole" assembles after the play for a final bow. Mark Banchi, Mary Beth Kenny, Robert Drake, Jean O'Donnell, Kathleen Slannon, Frank Hoffman, and Kathy Lucas all gave outstanding performances in this, the first play of the night. Under the supervision of Mr. Diehl, Fr. Spinelli, and Fr. Warne, this was a memorable night for all who attended.

PLAYS

These "Parole" characters seem engrossed in the real life drama of the plot. Such fine acting helped make this play a great success.

Anthony Inverso practices his lines as Joe Summers with Ann Marie Doris, who played his wife, Belva.

This year Msgr. Bonner was fortunate to have put three plays into production; namely, "The Lottery," "Parole," and "The Mad Breakfast." Each play had its own cast, which gave more students an opportunity to perform and show their talents. These three plays were under the excellent direction of Fr. Spinelli and Mr. O'Brien, who filled in for Fr. Warne. The good performances of our students were well-received on the nights of presentation.

Armando Masciantonio and John Reynolds adjust an oscillator and an oscilloscope in a brief experiment in the Physics lab. Bob Elliot and Charlie O'Neill seem a bit unconcerned over the outcome.

Members of the Radio Club gather around their equipment in the Physics lab. This group meets monthly to discuss the intricate parts of radios and their roles in the proper functioning of the instruments.

MUSIC CLUB • RADIO • CHESS CLUB

The members of the Chess Club participate in a vigorously intellectual sport. This activity, which has been enthusiastically received, provides both competition and relaxation for the participating students. The stiff opposition at the chess matches is magnified by the number and quality of the Bonner contestants.

An integral part of the Jazz and Folk Music Club is providing entertainment both for themselves and others.

From bellowing to solitude

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

A great part of Bonner's social activity centers around the weekly dances held in the gym. Here two Bonner students seem to be enjoying the excellent entertainment provided each week.

John Hartnett and Tom Burke look as though business has slowed down while working at a mixer earlier this year. These mixers were later to become a source of weekly entertainment for Bonner students.

This was the scene on every Sunday during the past football sesason. Win or lose, the loyal Friar supporters shouted encouragement and cheered to the football team from the stands.

All eyes are turned hopefully on the spinning wheel. This is one of the various devices used at the Bonner Fair to help us donate our money to the Augustinian Seminaries.

PROM

The night finally arrived when the Seniors were to be participating in the most awaited social event of the year — the Senior Prom.

On arriving at the Prom, the crowd found themselves in a mystic atmosphere and they enjoyed the simple beauty of the night. As the night progressed, sounds of joy rose from the throats of all who attended this gala affair.

Judging from the reactions of the Seniors who were in attendance, the well-laid plans of Fr. Hanouille and the Prom Committee produced a great success. The glorious remembrances of that evening will live in the minds of the Seniors for many years to come.

This couple stop for a moment to admire the picturesque foliage that surrounds the fountain. At times like these they realize how fast the four years have gone.

Happiness resounding in our hearts

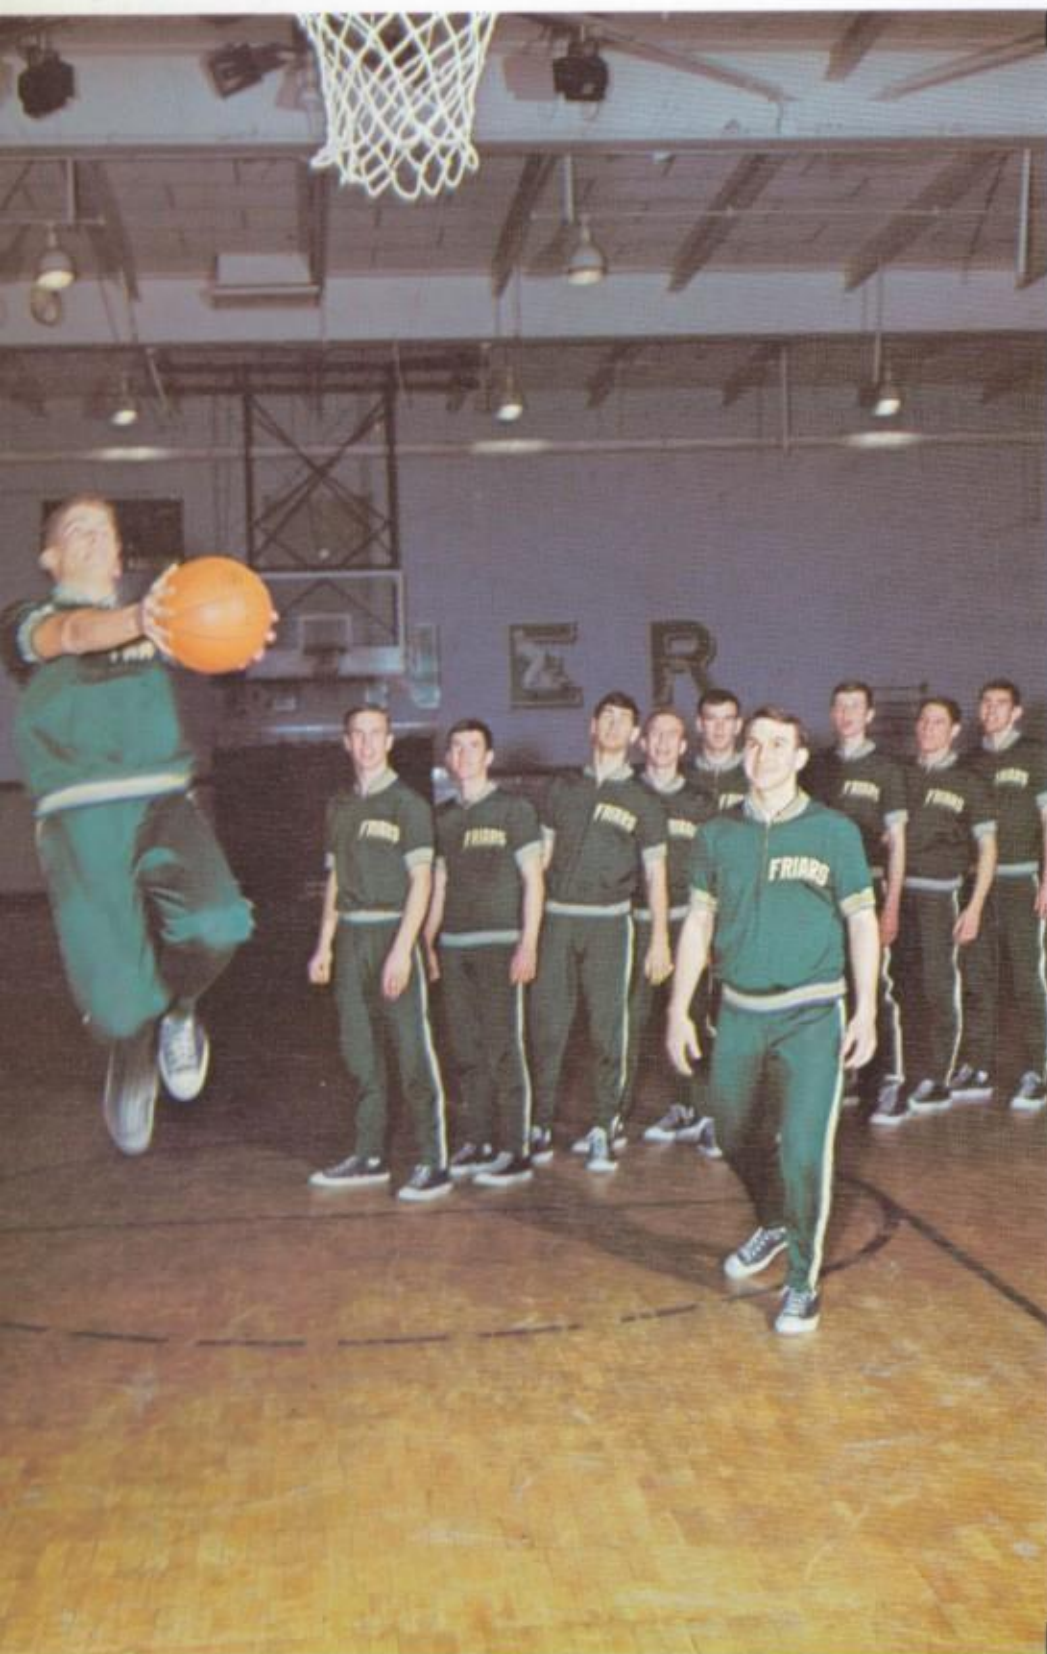

These seniors and their dates find themselves lost in the gaiety of the affair. They all realize that the Senior Prom is one of the high points of their high school years.

These couples are entering upon the threshold of a perfect night that will be recalled countless times.

It is evident that this couple expresses the feelings of everyone at the prom this year.

SPORTS

The air was filled with the sounds of excitement and determination as Bonner teams entered into competition for their seasons through 1966-67. While securing numerous victories and encountering some defeats, both the worthy participants and the boisterous spectators experienced many thrills and disappointments throughout the teams' respective schedules. With few exceptions, the teams boasted records which were generally improvements over preceding years. Truly the clamor of the spectators showed our enthusiasm for the sports seasons of 1966 and 1967.

The sounds of excitement

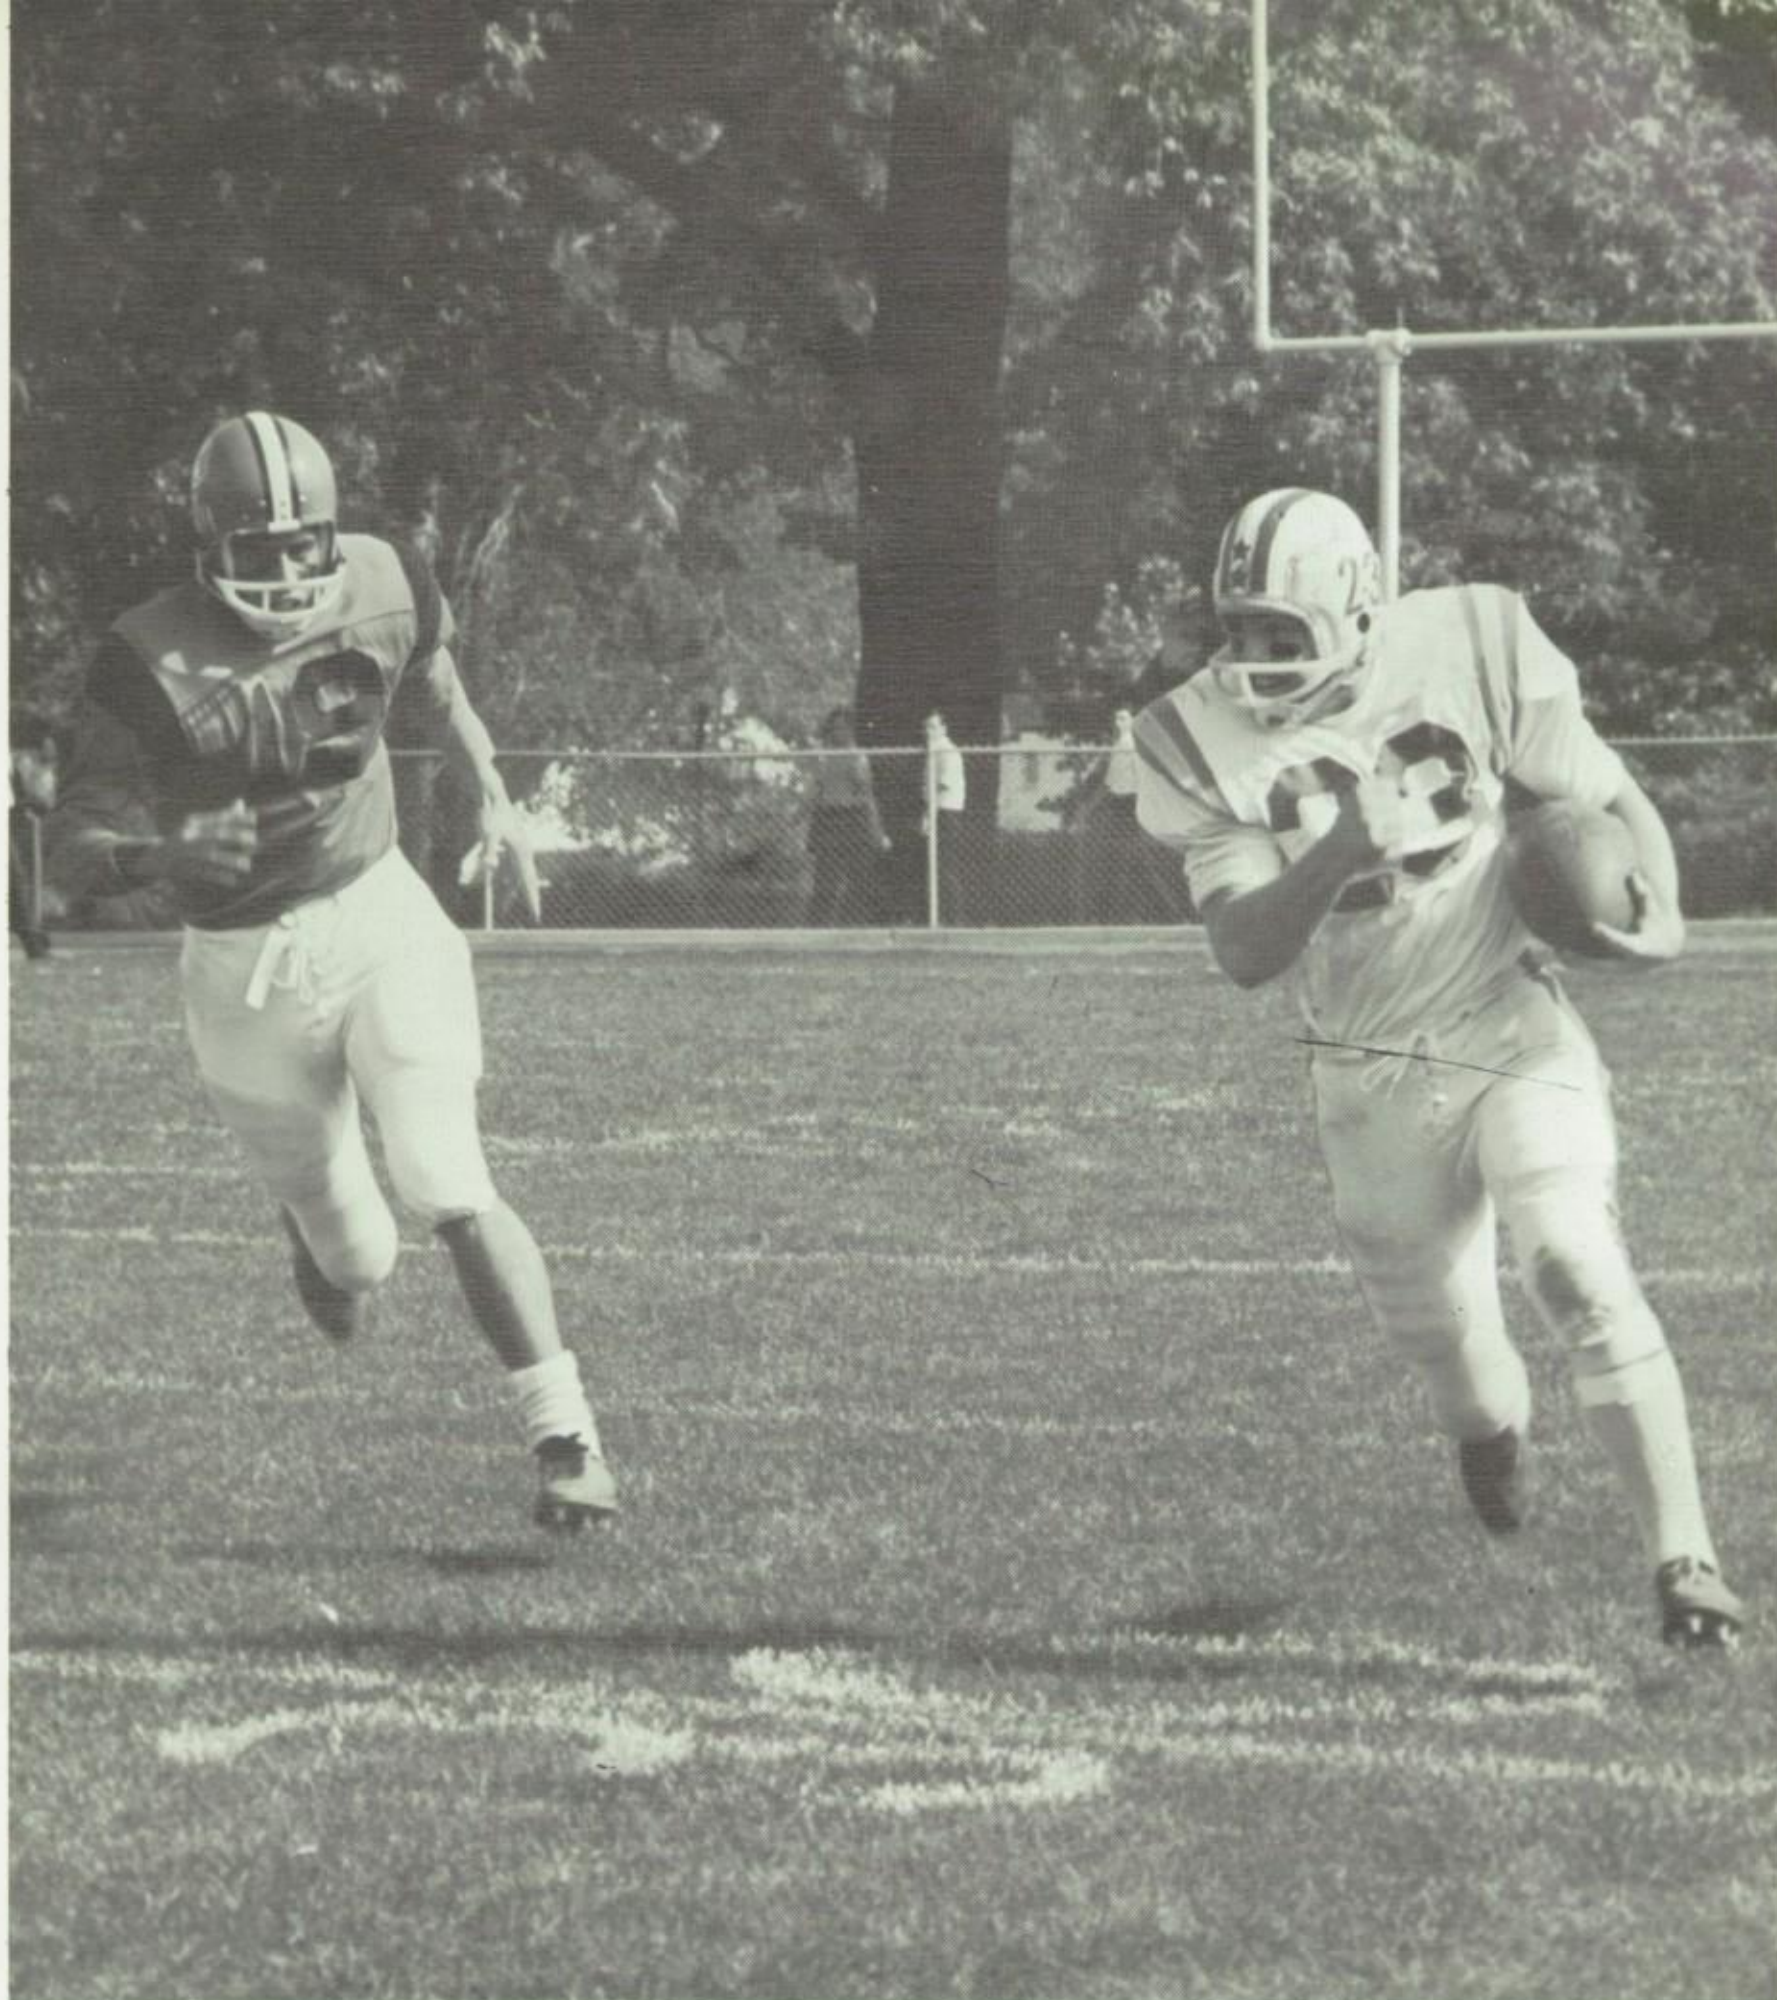

Fierce blocking and rugged running on all kinds of terrain was in order this year as Bonner gave opponents forty-eight minutes of grueling action each Sunday in the season.

It is often said that scores without stories are misleading. This is especially true of this year's varsity football team whose record of four wins and five losses, though seemingly unimpressive, represents a season filled with hard fought contests — some decided in the final minute of play. Outstanding seniors anchored the good team. Among those who received special honors are fullback Sean Meagher, quarterback Bill Hutton, halfback Frank Gilligan, and tackle Steve Scotolline. Many juniors and a few sophomores also played well in varsity competition.

Our first game this season was against Cardinal Dougherty whom we defeated 21-0. Our second start was not so successful as we bowed to a strong Father Judge team 38-21. Against St. James we pulled out a 6-0 victory on a muddy field. Following this game came Bishop Neumann to whom we suffered a defeat by the score of 19-18. The following two Sundays brought defeat from West Catholic, 30-14, and Cardinal O'Hara, 16-9. A determined Friar team bounced back with two victories against St. Joseph's, 20-2, and St. Thomas More, 23-6. Our final contest ended in defeat at the hands of Roman Catholic, 24-21.

The team, tagged with a mediocre won-lost record, was actually a good team, one which gave its supporters many thrills.

All-Catholic halfback Sean Meager skirts left end against the Neumann Pirates. This run was the bread and butter play of the Friars all season long.

A pensive mood is exhibited by these Friar players during an apparent lull in battle. Although only a few have seen action, everyone shares fully in the defeat of the enemy and victory for Bonner.

A key pass reception is made by end Tom Matthews during the O'Hara game. The consistency of Bonner ends coming up with the big play was instrumental in Bonner's victories.

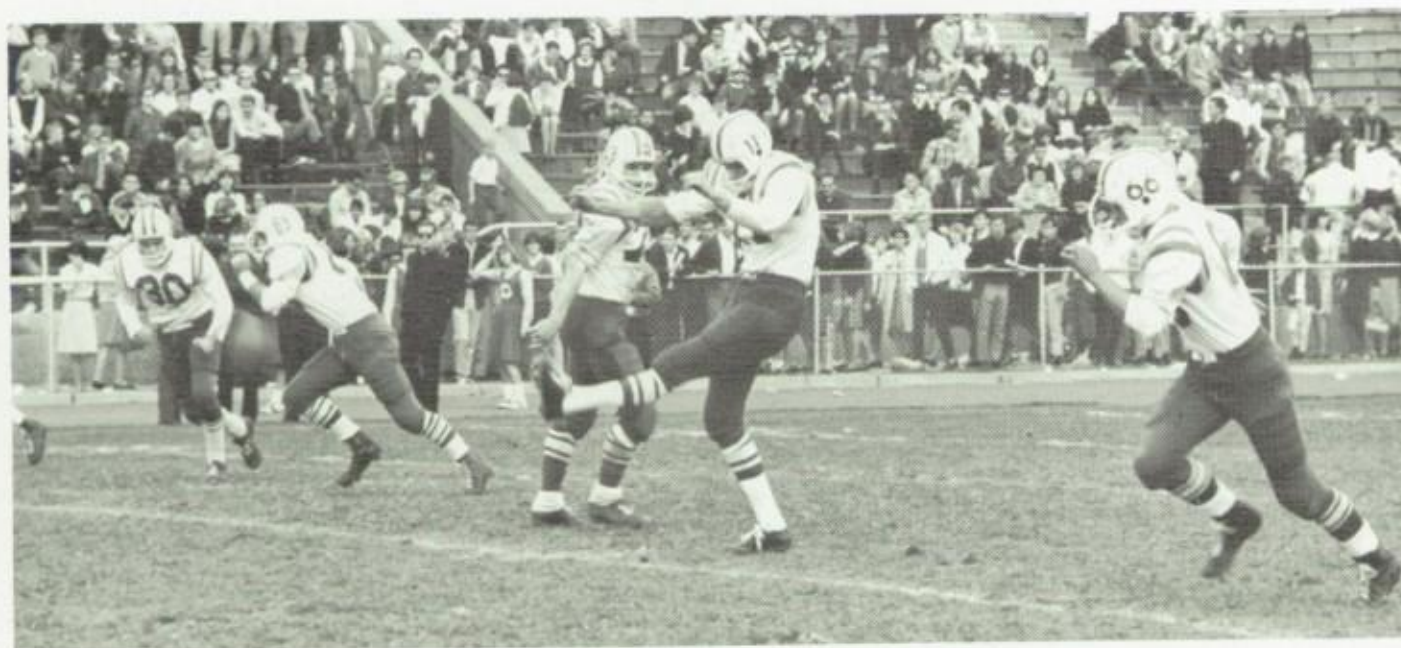

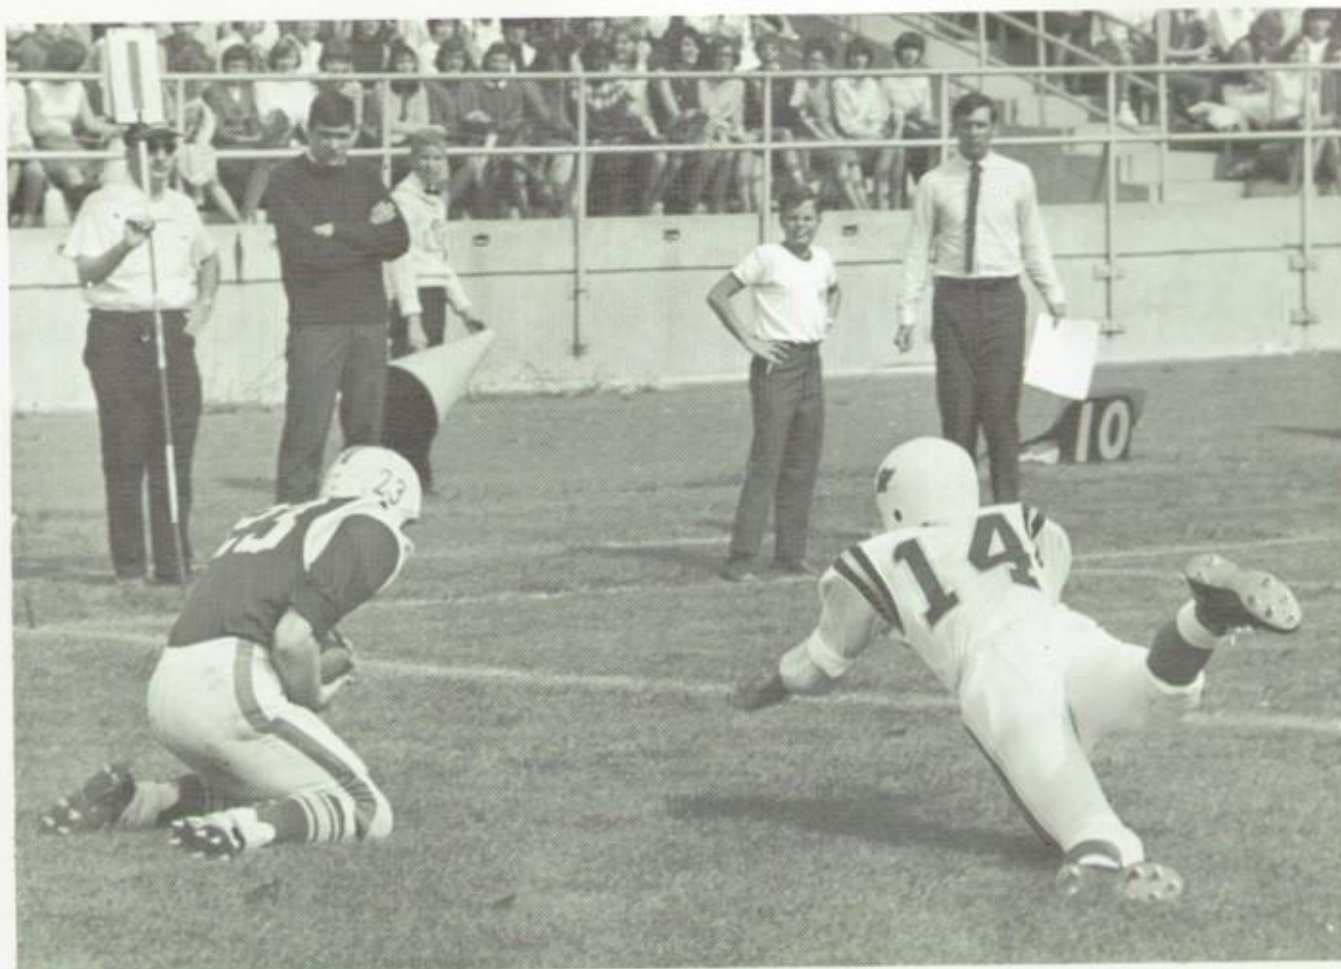

One of the strong Friar sophomores, Steve Phillips, is about to deflect a pass from the outstretched hands of a Cardinal O'Hara receiver.

Quarterback Bill Hutton runs the rollout-option around Cardinal Dougherty's end. Interference is provided by end Ed Barycki and halfback Sean Meagher as they enable Bill to break into the secondary.

All-Catholic back Sean Meagher gathers in a touchdown pass despite the diving efforts of a Dougherty defender. Sean presented an extra threat to opposition, doubling as a fine open field runner plus a dependable receiver.

Much to the delight of many Bonner fans, our "taxi squad" performed creditably throughout the season. Here some of the members are preparing to put a stop to any possible kickoff return.

Bill Hutton, our "honorable mention" quarterback, scrambles away from the opponent's defense, while Frank Gilligan shows a rather different way of fighting off a would-be-tackler.

The most successful play utilized by the '66 J.V. squad was the end sweep. Pulling guard Mike Guille is about to block out an oncoming linebacker. Such a key block enables the ball carrier to gain much needed yardage.

A Bonner defender crashes into a West Catholic ball carrier as other Friar tacklers move in for the "kill," an enjoyable and satisfying action for defensive players, much to the distaste of running backs.

MONSIGNOR BONNER HIGH SCHOOL JUNIOR VARSITY FOOTBALL RECORD

Date	School	We	They
September 18	Cardinal Dougherty	20	12
September 25	Father Judge	6	0
October 2	St. James	34	8
October 9	Bishop Neumann	14	0
October 16	West Catholic	36	0
October 23	Cardinal O'Hara	20	0
October 30	St. Joseph's Prep	20	12
November 6	St. Thomas More	28	14
November 13	Roman Catholic	16	0

Sounds of crashing helmets on the gridiron

As Charles Kelly grabs hold of an opening kickoff against Roman, he is joined by teammate Jerry Bracken who leads upfield interference, as he had done so brilliantly throughout the season.

This year's J.V. squad displayed their abilities to the fullest, achieving an undefeated, nine-game season. Although J.V. victories aren't widely publicized, they are important in that they give insight as to the future varsity football record. The number of J.V. players who participated in varsity competition was large and many sophomores played impressively. With a strong contingent of underclass players such as these, Bonner's football future looks bright.

A Friar runner turns on the speed as he tries to turn the corner despite the efforts of a determined, but faltering West Catholic tackler in a J.V. game.

Bonner's dependable J.V. line is called upon to make a goal-line stand. They succeed in hauling down the O'Hara ballcarrier, and display the skill which enabled them to establish an undefeated record this season.

J.V. FOOTBALL

Bonner's undefeated Junior Varsity football team performed many magical deeds on the gridiron including the occasional wheedling of an extra down as the fifth down marker in the picture (top right) indicates.

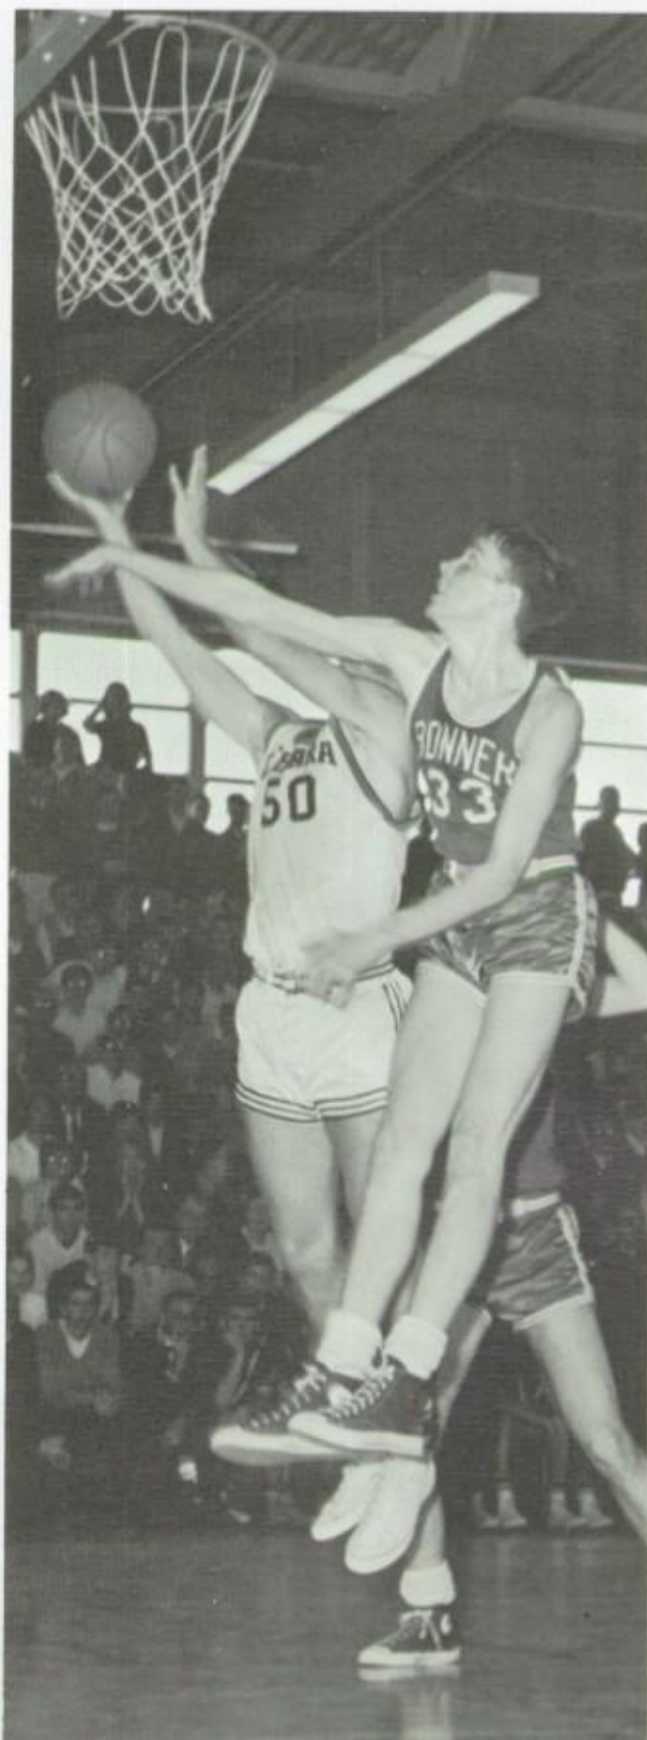

BASKETBALL

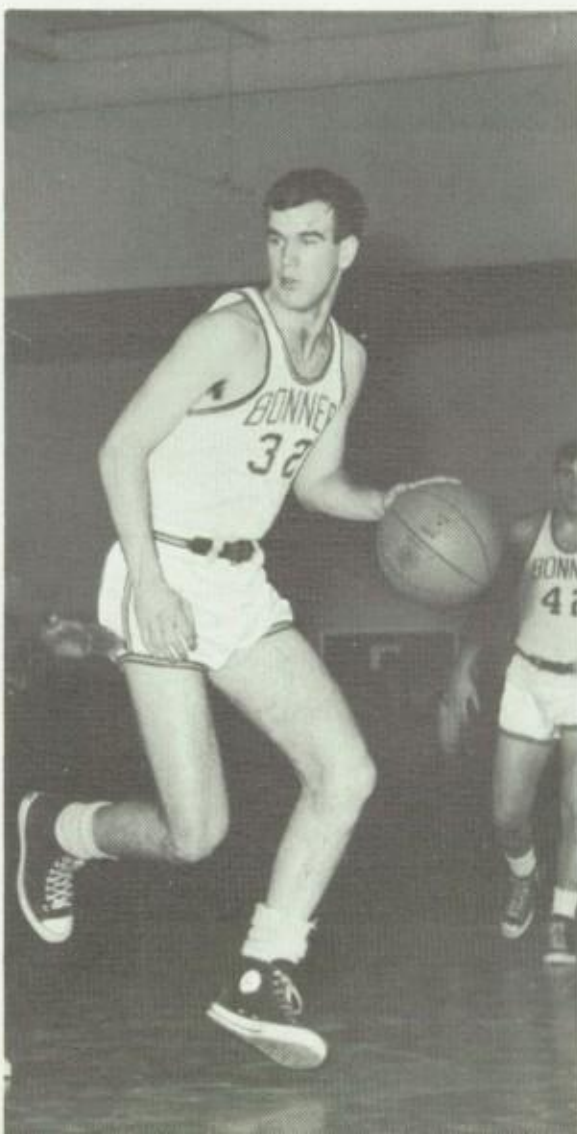

Probably the most crucial game of the season, the O'Hara game (played away) was a big boost for the Friar's title hopes. Here Ed Phillips takes down an important rebound.

The year-long ability of Jack Baylor to block opponents' shots proved a major factor as displayed here in the second O'Hara tilt.

Contrary to most pre-season forecasts, the 1967 Bonner basketball squad molded into a Catholic League powerhouse. Coach Sabol put together a solid and consistent team, even though he had a nucleus of only two returning lettermen and five untested seniors. The seven playing seniors always seemed to have the big shot and they never let up on defense. Returning from the previous season, Tom Dougherty controlled the team with his fine floor game and was noted for his tremendous hustle. The other returnee, Nick Scogna, played up to expectations. When the team needed a big shot they could depend on Nick and his swishing set shot. The board play of Jack Baylor and Steve Dahm cannot be forgotten. Both stopped up the middle on defense and were experts on tap ins. Ed Phillips was probably the most consistent Friar as he always seemed to come up with a much needed shot, rebound, or loose ball. The other two ball players, Steve Rullo and Joe Linaugh played exceptional on the floor and both were tough on defense. In all, a big season for one of Bonner's best yet underrated basketball teams.

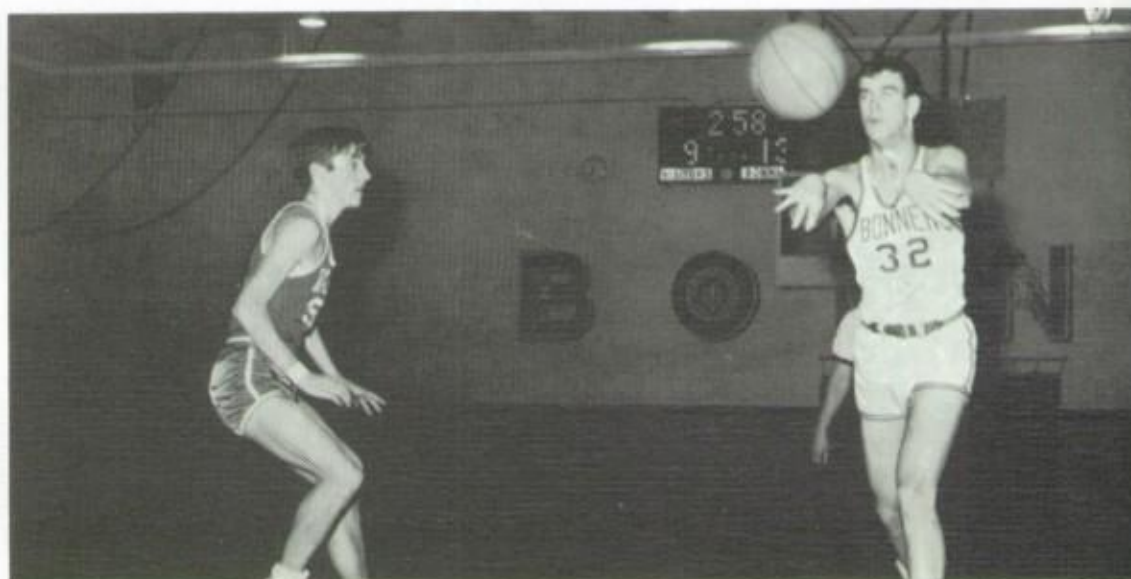

The team's high scorer, Nick Scogna, begins his drive towards the basket against St. Thomas More.

Eddie Phillips, the most consistent player on the team, whips a pass towards a teammate stationed in the corner.

With the ref cautiously looking on at Cardinal O'Hara, Jack Baylor looks frantically for an open teammate.

Good hustle is displayed here by both Steve Dahm and Ed Phillips as they battle Roman Catholic players for the ball.

The stakes were clear: undisputed possession of first place and a first round bye in the Catholic League playoffs. Playing before a packed house at Villanova, Feb. 22, the Friars, led by Tom Dougherty's slingshot shooting, squeaked out a 55-52 overtime victory over Cardinal O'Hara. The train was on the move.

Cardinal Dougherty, who trounced a dejected Lion team in the first round of the playoffs, was next rolled under the massive wheel of the Bonner train. Expert shooting by Nick Scogna and twin backboard control enabled the Friars to crush the Cardinals 58-45. The train couldn't be stopped!

The final round for the Catholic League championship was slated for Sunday afternoon, March 5. The Bonner engine was on the move once more. North Catholic's Falcons met the Friars head on and the battle raged on into the twilight hours. Regulation play ended in a tie, both teams shooting with nearly 50% accuracy. A first overtime prolonged the battle but 3 minutes more, resulting in another deadlock, 56-56. The Friars continued the encounter once again, while North effected a freeze for nearly 2½ minutes. While the onlookers gaped in sudden realization, the Falcons' Bohn hit a freak tap at the buzzer for a shocking 58-56 victory. The Friar engine, after compiling a 22-6 record, had been stopped!

Marino, coach Sabol, N. Scogna, S. Dahm, J. Baylor, E. Phillips, B. Sabol, J. Linaugh, and J. Jones.

Bob Sabol powers his way through the Neumann defense with determination and hustle for an easy layup. Employing his versatility and strength, he frustrated his opponents throughout the season with clutch rebounds and scintillating plays.

Ray Baraldi prepares to turn this rebound into a fast break, a potent weapon in the Bonner offensive this year.

Functioning under the massive shadow of the varsity's success, the J.V. has shown signs of a championship bound team in the coming year. Hard-driving offensive energy, engineered by a hustling defense, enabled the Friar J.V. cagers to overcome stiff competition.

The rebounding strength of sophomore Bob Sabol coupled with the backcourt sharpshooting of Art and Jim Hunter and the ball-handling mastery of Dave Parker proved to be indomitable to foes throughout the J.V. campaign. J.V. mentor, Mr. James Marino, hard at his job of preparing next year's varsity, kept the team moving at its maximum speed all season.

SWIMMING

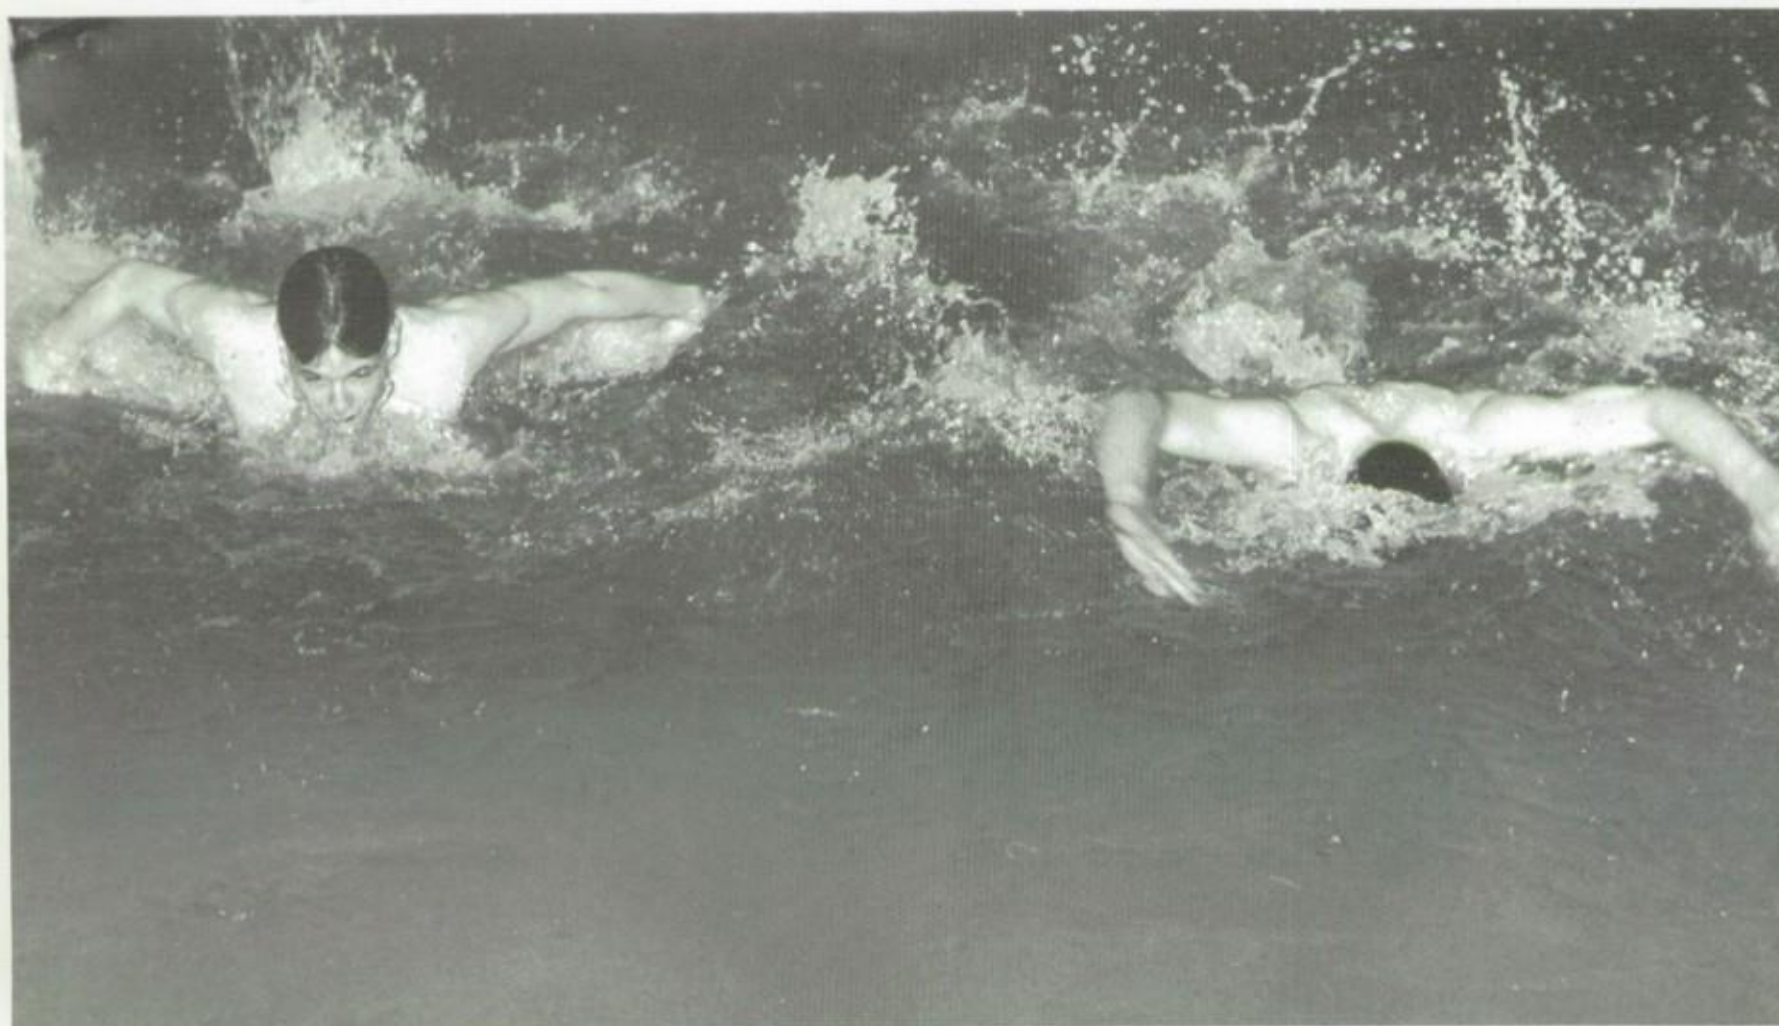

Bob Manning edges out Dave Zarrilli in one of the Friar's intrasquad races during practice. These boys provided Bonner with two fine backstrokers and two serious threats to Friar opponents.

Jim Morris springs into action with the swift start that presented him a quick lead and enabled him to win numerous races.

Superstar Dave Guerin, considered Bonner best butterfly swimmer, begins to accelerate, as he overcomes his tiring opponent. He always puts forth a supreme effort, that made him a clutch performer.

Sounds that make a big splash

Throughout the Catholic League, Monsignor Bonner is synonymous with swimming supremacy. Under the tough regime of a new coach, Mr. Don Robinson, the Friars once again upheld a winning tradition with their undying spirit and dauntless dedication. The Bonner mermen powered their way to another successful season. With unlimited determination, the team was able to unleash its full potential against formidable opponents.

The rhythmic stroking and smooth motion of Marty Lavin and Jim Shanahan won for them well-deserved recognition. Marty and Jim proved to be essential factors in the team's success as they gave their utmost in every meet. An unsung hero is Dave Guerin who was a consistent contributor to Friar triumphs with his fine executions of the butterfly.

The "67" mermen consisted of: (top row) B. Manning, J. Shanahan, D. Burrows, F. Voight; (third row) coach D. Robinson, C. Reed, M. Lavin, M. Hanley, D. Zarilli; (second row) B. Guiteras, E. Egan, B. McConnell, J. Loughran; (bottom row) M. Manning, P. Shrafer, Spencer, M. McCullough.

Mike Manning sprints through the water as he lengthens his lead with his rhythmic breaststroke. Mike promises much in his future years as a Friar mermen.

Unusually strong competition this year caused the Bonner mermen to lose in a few heart-breakers, but an unswerving desire throughout the entire season produced a very impressive overall record for the Friars.

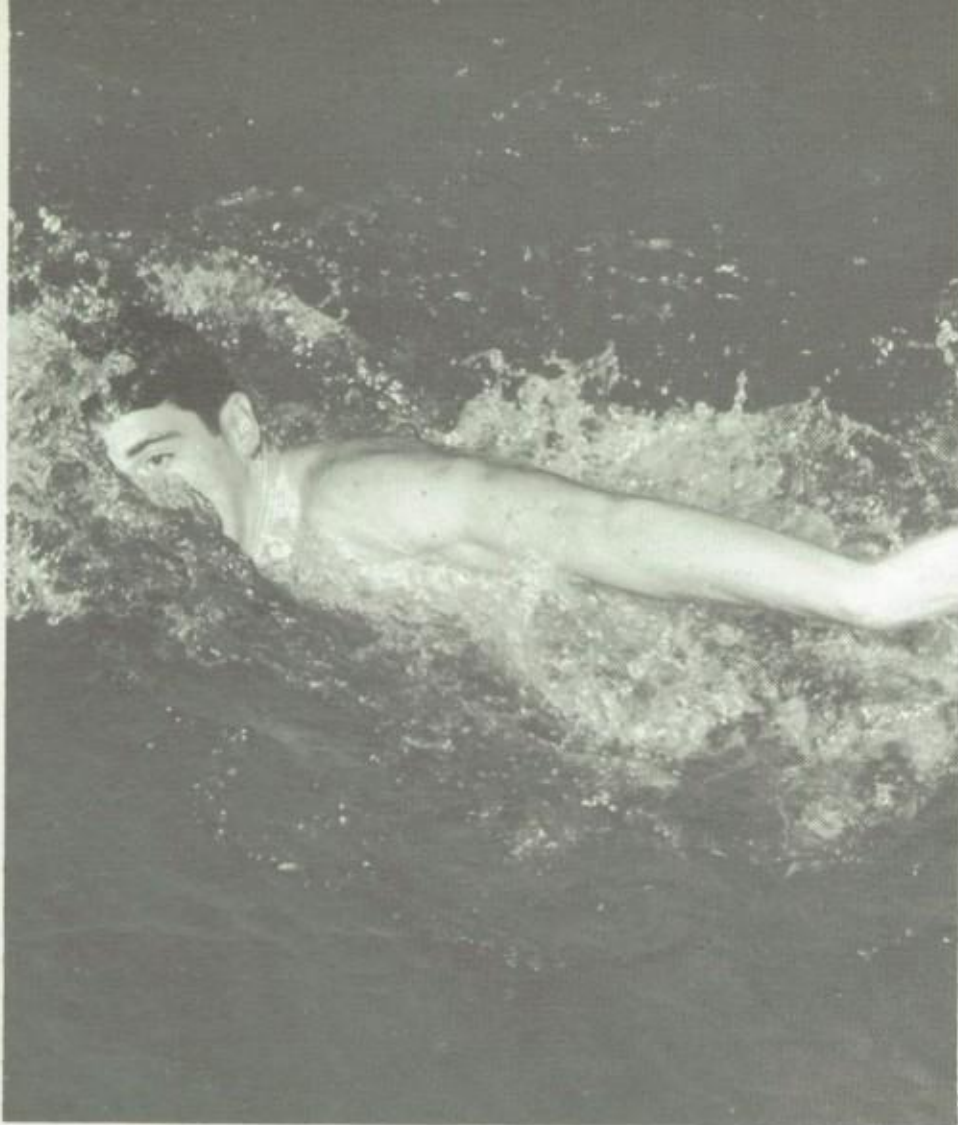

Mike Manning, an up and coming underclassman, gasps for breath as he speeds his way down the last lap. He is an energetic swimmer and proved to be a great asset to the team.

The excitement builds as senior Marty Lavin moves into position in anticipation of the starting signal. Excellent balance combined with perfect timing brought him swift and powerful take-offs, which were decisive in beating the clock and in subduing opponents.

Gliding through the water at high speed is Jim Morris, as he shows his outstanding ability at the butterfly. His proficiency at this vigorous stroke made him one of this year's best.

Senior star Dan Burroughs streaks toward another victory as he demonstrates the form that made him an admirable performer. He sparked the team with his excellent achievements not only as a swimmer, but also as the team enthusiast.

Coach Don Robinson gives a few pointers to Jim Shanahan (not shown) on how to cut precious seconds from his already growing list of records, as Marty Lavin (in foreground) and teammates listen attentively.

BOWLING

The rumble of balls and the thunder of crashing pins provided the backdrop for one of Bonner's more successful varsity campaigns. Paced by the dedication and leadership of coach Melchiorre, and a bounteous supply of returning varsity and J. V. talent, the Keglers swept through their demanding schedule with customary ease. With Junior hot-shot Rich Edwards and Seniors Frank Kitzinger, Bob Johnson, and Frank Yacona, each of whom were backed up by a supply of eager underclassmen, the only problem the team presented was the touchy one of deciding who should start an upcoming match. This task was expertly handled by Mr. Melchiorre who had little else to do except watch his squad ramble through its Catholic League opposition.

and with his returning seniors fashioned the nucleus of a championship-calibre team which through the years has become as much an institution of Bonner life as the building itself.

Bob Johnson and Frank Kitzinger discuss a bowling problem as Messrs. Melchiorre and McCalla turn away, not wishing to be pinned down to an opinion.

The din of the falling pins

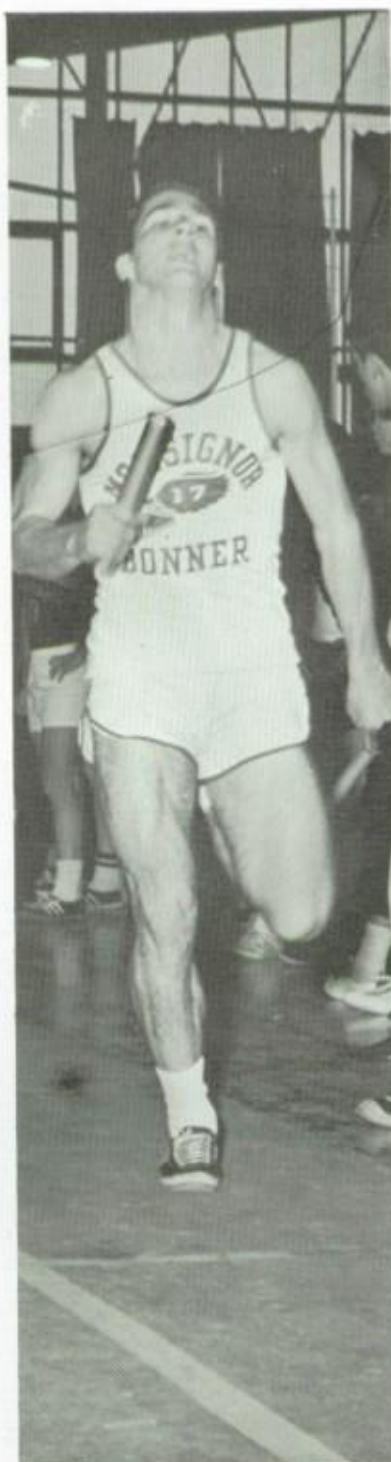

Expressing concern over an upcoming match, Frank Yacona, Bob Johnson, and Frank Kitzinger discuss pre-game strategy. Their concern proved unnecessary, however, as the team bowled over high calibre opposition on the way to a successful year.

TRACK

It's a two-horse race and about to become a rout as Chic Richards, with his characteristic wide stride, effortlessly pulls away from a spent Dougherty trackster whose last-ditch rally falls short.

Jim Carlin, an experienced distance runner, rushes to the lead at the start of another gruelling two-mile run. Through his talent and spirit, "Gimpy" has sparked the team throughout his varsity career.

With a comfortable lead over his closest rival, Joe Dreger races in with the baton and adds points to an already formidable Friar total.

Pacing himself every step of the way, Joe Kelso, one of our outstanding distance men, leads the pack around a turn.

Jim McLaughlin strains every muscle as he kicks out for extra distance in the broad jump. Jim has been a valuable squad member for several years, and his versatility has made him a mainstay of the Friar attack.

Moonlighting from his specialty, Fred Maglione, Bonner's high jumper supreme, leaps to certain victory in the broad jump. The human satellite has contributed immeasurably to Bonner victories through his domination of the field events.

One of the brighter sports teams in the Bonner spotlight is our renowned track team. Such track and field threats as Dennis McElroy, Joe Kelso, Joe Dreger, Jim McLaughlin, and Jim Carlin attained feats which, at the beginning of the season, were inconceivable. However, the greatest of all Bonner track and field men is Fred Maglione; noted for his illustrious high jumping, Fred has already vied with college competition, and his name has been inscribed in many record books.

Picking up precious points in the sprints, Bob Cashioli has consistently made his presence felt by both Catholic and Public School opposition. Here, Bob has hit full stride with an explosion of reserve energy which allows him to overtake and gradually inch past a winded Springfield track star. Bob will be back for bigger and better things next year.

Den McElroy and John Lorentowicz sprint toward the finishing line in the All-Delco meet. Their strong running enabled them to finish second and fourth, respectively, and to capture first place in the annual race.

The strain of a grueling race begins to exhibit itself on the face of Jim Carlin as he sets a blistering pace in the Catholic League Championship. Jim's consistent running and remarkable stamina helped contribute to the team's fine season.

CROSS COUNTRY

The powerful Bonner cross country team finished fourth in the tough Catholic League. Under the capable leadership of Father O'Rourke and Mr. Robinson, this year's Harriers secured first place in the annual All-Delco meet and posted a commendable record in dual meet competition. The team was paced by a number of experienced seniors, such as: Dennis McElroy, John Larentowitz, John Moran, and Joseph Kelso. The 1966 Friar runners displayed both ability and stamina characteristic of previous Bonner teams.

The muffled thuds of hundreds of blocked shots, the shouts of squad members whose educated toes have guided innumerable attempts past a helpless goalie, and the masterful footwork utilized by all the booters in driving opposing defensemen to the verge of tears, all imposed sight and sound impressions on the student body, earning respect and admiration for Mr. Piacelli, Fr. Rodriguez, and the whole team.

The year's squad, though less than fantastic in the victory column, continued the scintillating brand of soccer which has hallmarked recent Friar campaigns and which blends well with the sport's new-found prominence and popularity.

The advantage of having players like John D'Urbano who exhibits a wealth of talent and dedication, and such standouts as Gene Taylor and co-captains Mike Marlin and Frank Skivington, league high-scorer and the latest in a growing line of Friar super-stars, is that these men not only give the Booters an exciting outlook, but also provide for future excellence through their influence and example on the Sophs and Juniors.

Although it appears that Frank DiGregory is grimacing from the force of the impact of the ball, the expression is actually one of apprehension as he juggles the ball in the short time before more opposing players rush to the scene, and thus provide a greater challenge for his quickness and co-ordination.

All-Catholic Frank Skivington takes control of the ball and prepares to pass to an open teammate. Frank's fantastic scoring belied his value as an all-around team player.

Agile Bob Convery leaps high to "head" the ball as a completely astonished rival booter, seething with envy, looks on in helplessness.

Co-captain Mike Marlin speeds toward a loose ball to the chagrin of the outclassed opposition. Mike's hustling game influenced the outcome of many close contests.

dolph, J. C. O'Brien (capt.), N. McDermott, J. Rowe, and Asst. Coach J. Glackin. These dedicated oarsmen spent long hours after school as well as Saturdays trying to improve their rowing prowess.

Bob Rudolph is pictured here performing the all-important task of checking and adjusting his foot stretchers. Many times heartbreaking losses have been the results of failure to spot faulty slides, oarlocks, and foot stretchers. Bob played an important part in the success of this year's team.

CREW

The Friar oarsmen finished this year with a fine record. This success can be attributed mainly to the number of 1966 lettermen who returned this year. With these veterans as a nucleus, combined with the large number of new candidates for the team, Coaches Mattson and Glackin were able to fashion the squad into a winning team.

The only drawback of this exciting sport is the amount of time involved in practice and commuting to and from the river; however, most agree that it is well worth the time and effort in order that they can participate in this physically and mentally demanding sport. At the conclusion of last season, the crew team's numbers were depleted, but all concerned agree that with the team's good depth and the large number for tryouts each year, the crew team seems to be a potential powerhouse for years to come.

Powered by Friar oarsmen, a strong eight pulls swiftly away from the slip. As the late afternoon sunlight quickly fades away, the Bonner team continually strives to improve their power and timing, until they reach the quality desired.

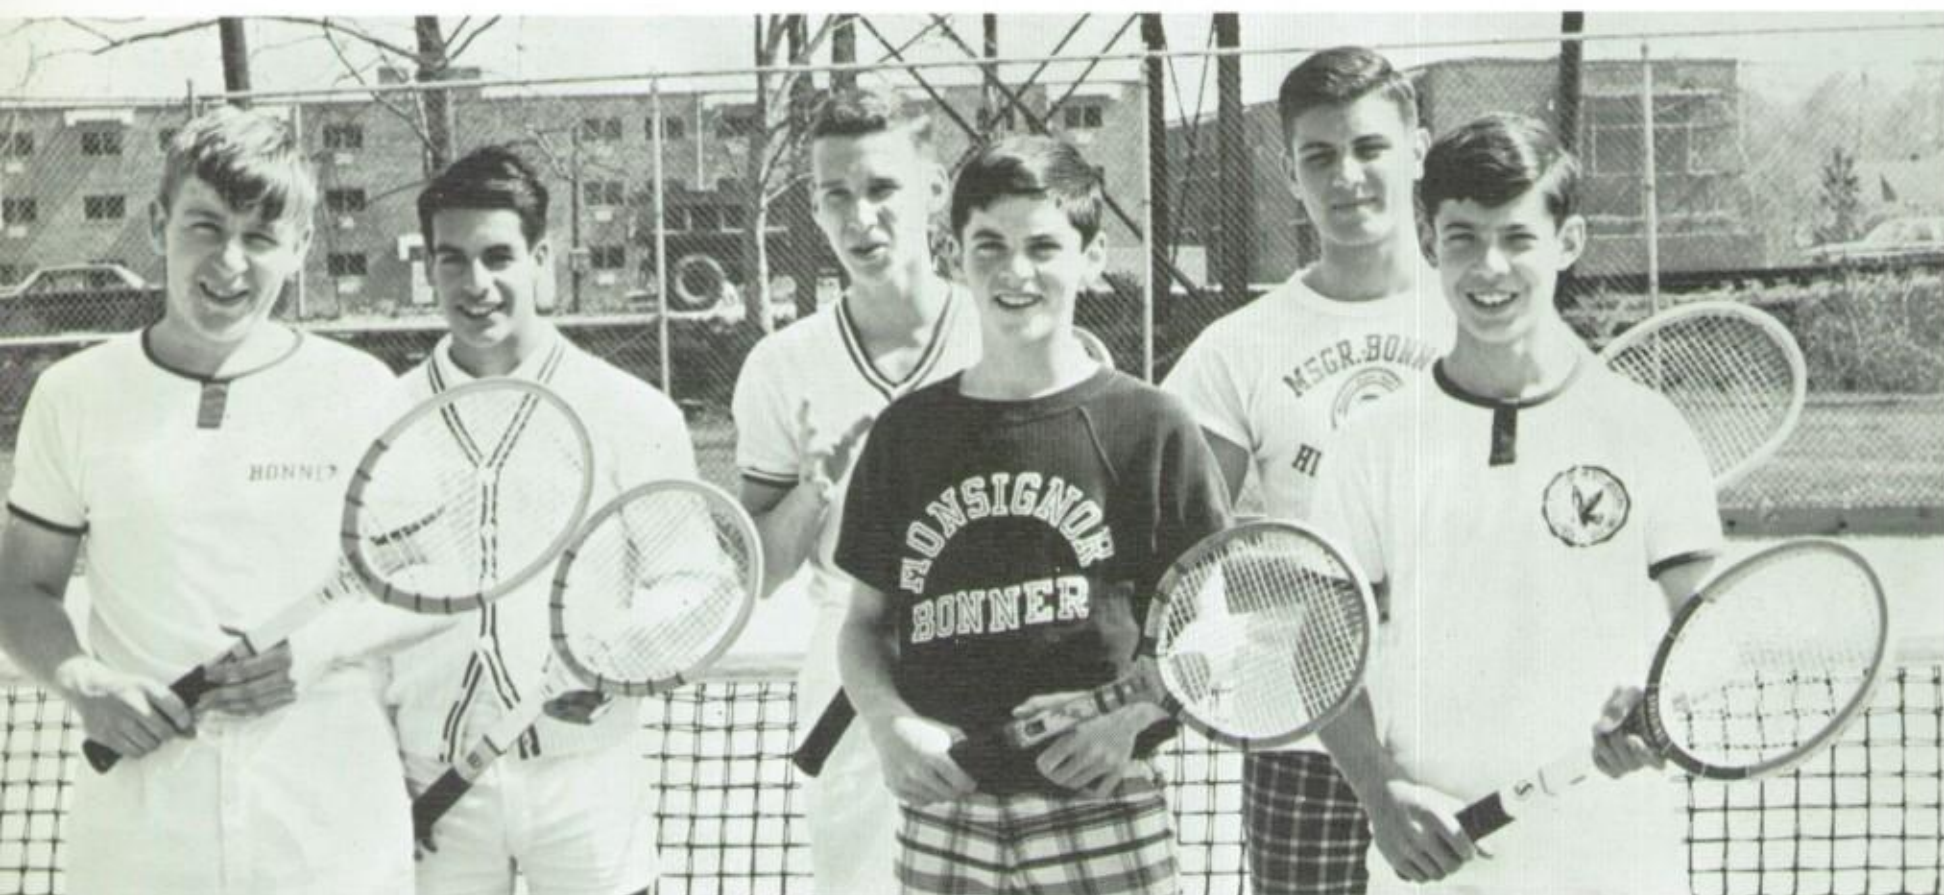

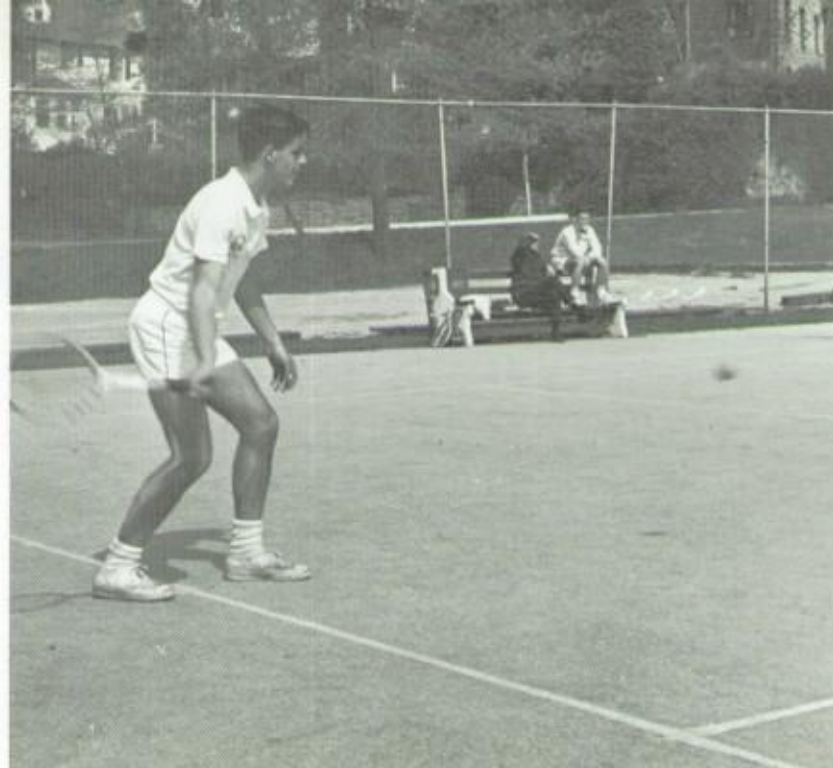

Perfect unison is exemplified by these "iron men" of Bonner. Moving smoothly, despite the opposing current, these oarsmen are prepared to spend a long afternoon in the pursuit of more power and better timing.

The threatening command of an opposing coxswain.

Led by seniors Bill Peck and Andy Lampone, Bonner's best singles player last year, and an All-Catholic selection, the 1967 tennis squad further the noteworthy tradition of previous Friar campaigns. Fr. Scanlon's netmen, guided by a wealth of Fr. MacDougall's J.V. coaching and sharpened through long hours on the courts, fulfill pre-season expectation and went on to make their mark among the ever-challenging members of the Catholic League.

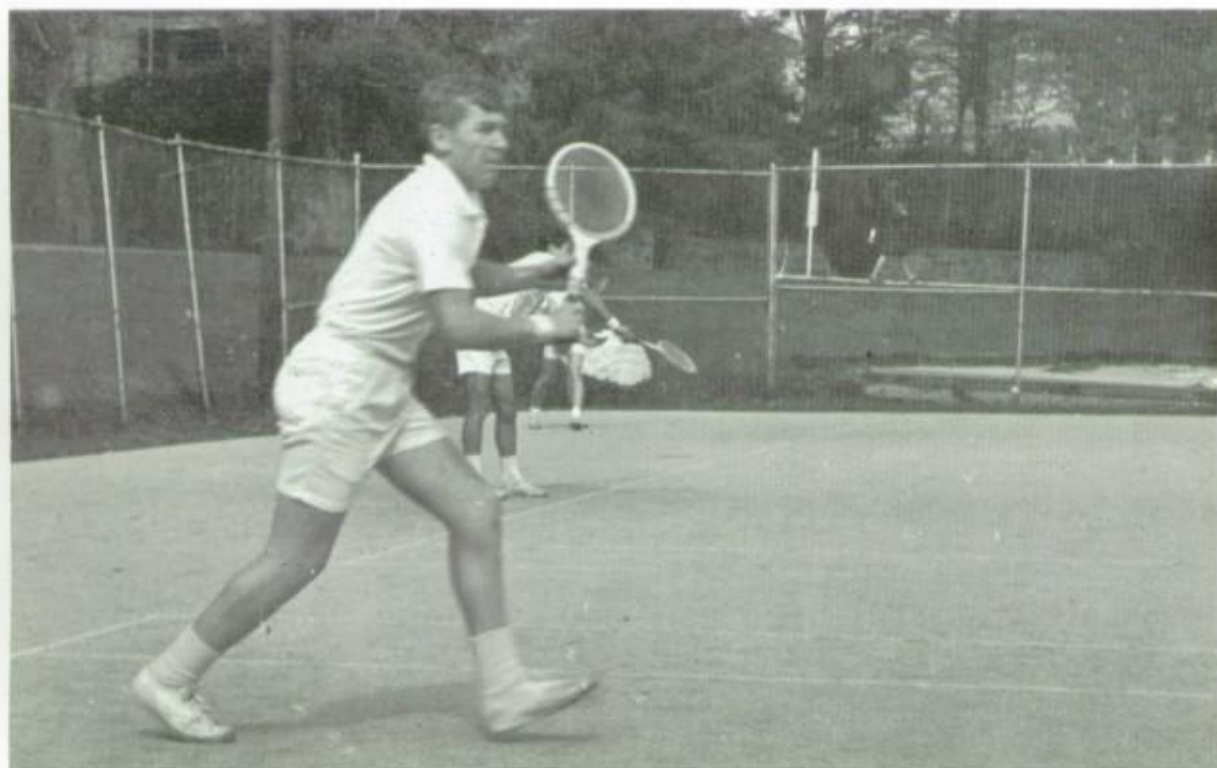

Bonner's best, Andy Lampone, sets his feet and prepares to blow his devastating forehand past another envious opponent. Andy epitomizes the rare combination of raw power, catlike quickness, and vast skill that is present in all great netmen.

The varsity tennis team: Bill Peck, Andy Lampone, Tom Ostrander, Pete Hurley, and Joe Caserta, stand beside the net on the courts that year after year have witnessed innumerable Friar successes. This year proved to be no exception, as seniors Lampone and Peck, hard pressed by a talented crop of underclass performers, realized that failure to produce would result in the immediate promotion of one of the "boy wonders."

TENNIS

With paralyzing quickness Bill Peck rushes toward the net to assume the offensive. In the intricate exchange of moves and counter moves which determine the winner of each point, Bill has become an experienced and respected competitor.

GOLF

Under the competent leadership of Mr. Dougherty, the Bonner Linksmen once again finished a successful season. Through hard practice they developed valuable talent and experience, that strengthened the team's effort. Indispensable were the booming drives and sharp putting which characterized the Friars aggressive game. The matches were very competitive this year, but with a supreme effort on the part of each member of the squad, Bonner continued with its winning ways.

One of the most fundamental aspects of golf is putting. Senior Dennis McNulty demonstrates the proper grip, which helped to improve his score as the season progressed.

Mr. Dougherty demonstrates for Tom Miller the intricacies of the chip shot. Accurate insights such as these helped to improve the team's performance greatly.

The Bonner Golf Team: Stephen Owsik, Thomas Miller, Mr. Jerome Dougherty, Coach, Fr. Robert Burke, O.S.A., Moderator, Dennis McNulty, John Stefansky, and John Reynolds.

The resounding crack of an extra-base hit.

One of the Friars' most consistent batsmen was senior Bill Hutton. Bill combined power and speed to bang out numerous base hits.

Before the 1967 baseball season, Mr. Stratton, coach of the Friar nine, expressed his anticipation of a successful varsity campaign. Coach Stratton's feelings were well-founded since the team was bolstered by returning seniors Bill Hutton, Sean Meagher and Ed Barycki along with members from last year's undefeated Junior Varsity. The Friars performed as expected as they combined hustle, good speed and solid hitting in their winning efforts.

BASEBALL

Catching is one of the most important of all baseball skills. Here, star catcher Ed Baricki takes some pointers from Coach Stratton and his assistant, Mr. McLaughlin, during a fall practice session.

Father Gallimore, originator of this novel intramural sport at Bonner, organizes some of these soccer enthusiasts.

INTRAMURALS

Although it may look like a dance contest, these two players thought differently as they battle for possession in one of their many skirmishes.

Two players fight for possession of the ball in vain, before the ref calls illegal procedure on a third, who attempts to grab the ball.

From the fields surrounding Bonner echoed a new and exciting sound. It was generated by the commotions arising from the newly inaugurated Intramural Soccer League contests. Bonner students have always participated enthusiastically in Intramurals, but the degree of interest in soccer was particularly noticeable. Despite almost universal inexperience in soccer, the soccer program enjoyed an exhilarating first year. Fr. Gallimore is the man responsible for the success of soccer on an intramural basis at Bonner.

BASKETBALL

An intramural basketball player leaps, fires, and barely misses his shot as other players position themselves in anticipation of a rebound, which will be fought for ferociously.

A minor skirmish arises over the fight for a rebound in an intramural contest.

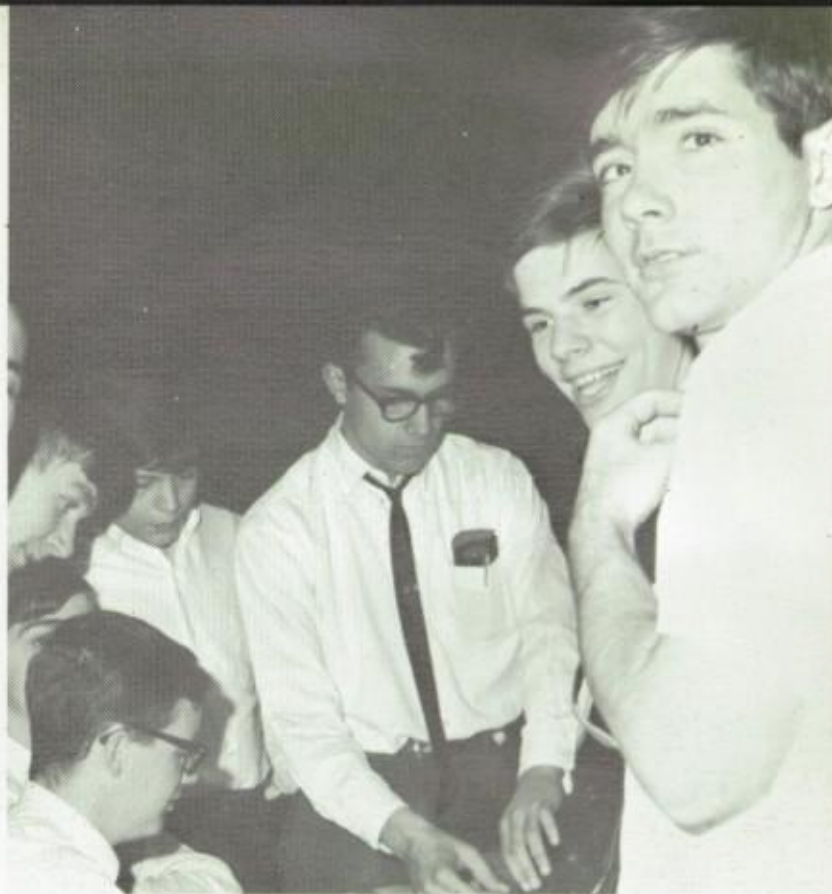

Boasting the greatest number of participants, intramural sports is truly the leader of Bonner's extra-curricular activities. Under the capable leadership of Father Gallimore, assisted by Angelo Capuzzi, John Krupenski, John Faustman, Mike Morrell, and John Bradley, the program has become well organized. Due to the universality of this undertaking, all who may not have been skilled enough to make varsity teams, may demonstrate their artistry in sports in this plan of events ranging from basketball to mushball. Every year this program has been expanded to include new and different sports in an effort to attract an even larger number of students to participate. Rivalry between sections has continued its trend to increase in intensity, and has developed section spirit greatly.

A short jump shot is on its way while players converge instinctively toward the basket.

Senior Mike Fromhold glows with satisfaction as Gene Cullen congratulates him on rolling a strike. His teammates anxiously check the score sheet to compute their chances of vanquishing their opponents in another hard fought intramural match.

BOWLING

Anxious expressions are shown by these intramural bowlers, as they await Bill Finnegan to compile the scores and the winners. The match was full of excitement and rugged competition until the final frame had been decided.

An optimistic senior tries to convince us of his section's intramural team's superior bowling skill, as his teammates concentrate on the annihilation of the white pins which confront them.

Intramural bowling can be an extremely emotional event. This Bonner senior detects a defect in the cigarettes and expresses his complaint to the manager. The turmoil ended shortly and the match continued without any disturbances.

One of the many peculiarities of intramural mushball is demonstrated here as Sam DelSordo pitches to his own teammates, while the opposition prepares itself on defense, which has proved to be very invaluable throughout the spring.

MUSH BALL

In the picture below, the power which has been a trademark of intramural mushball is exhibited by this batter who had the hopes of an extra-base hit. Due to the composition of the ball, finesse often proved to be an equal to power in this sport.

While the defense keeps on the alert for any of the possibilities which may occur, this batter awaits anxiously for his pitch which he hopes will result in a score for himself and his teammates.

This keen infield is seen showing the alertness, which had kept them in competition throughout the entire schedule and had gained respect from many of the other teams.

VOLLEY BALL

The flowing action of a volleyball game displays itself as one player returns the ball while his teammates move to back him up.

Bill Gearhart jumps and meets the ball at the right point as he returns a volley under the supervision of an alert teammate, John Faustman.

The intensity of an intramural volleyball match is exemplified here as two players combine their efforts in returning a shot.

Acrobatic skill and concentration are requisites of proficient volleyball playing as is shown here by senior John Faustman.

An opposing player stands in awe and helplessness as a slam, an almost indefensible shot, is perpetrated by a leaping volleyball player.

The din of the intra-mural competition.

UNDERCLASSES

Throughout their underclass years at Monsignor Bonner, students are enhanced by the various sounds of their school, their studies, and their activities. These sounds convey many associations and nostalgic remembrances.

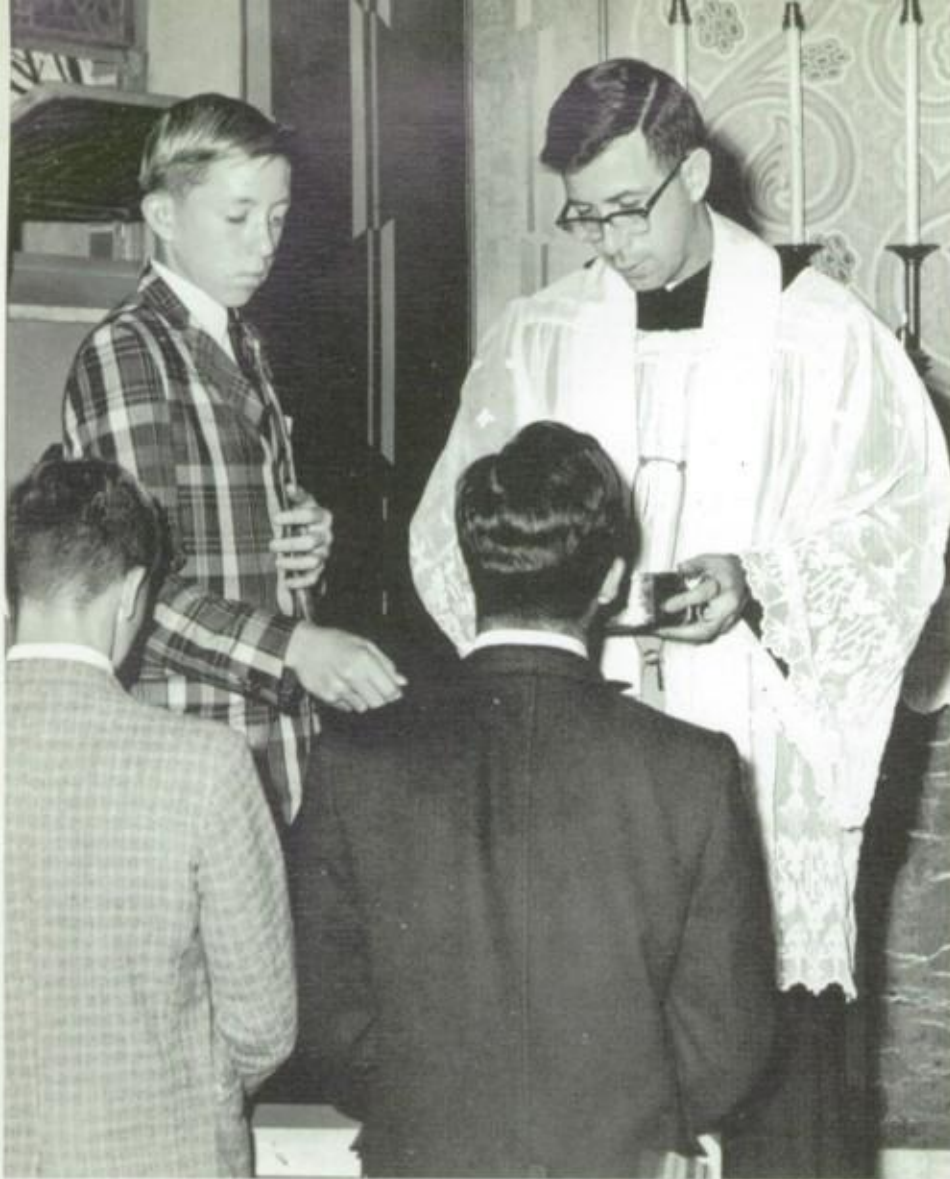

Sounds of the school are indicated by the echoes ringing through the halls between classes.

Sounds of studies emanate from discussions in class in relation to the various subjects that are studied.

Sounds of activities can be heard through the cheering of the spectators or the repercussions throughout the gym during the Bonner Mixers.

These sounds represent a life at Bonner, a life that can be profitable for the classes of '68, '69, and '70.

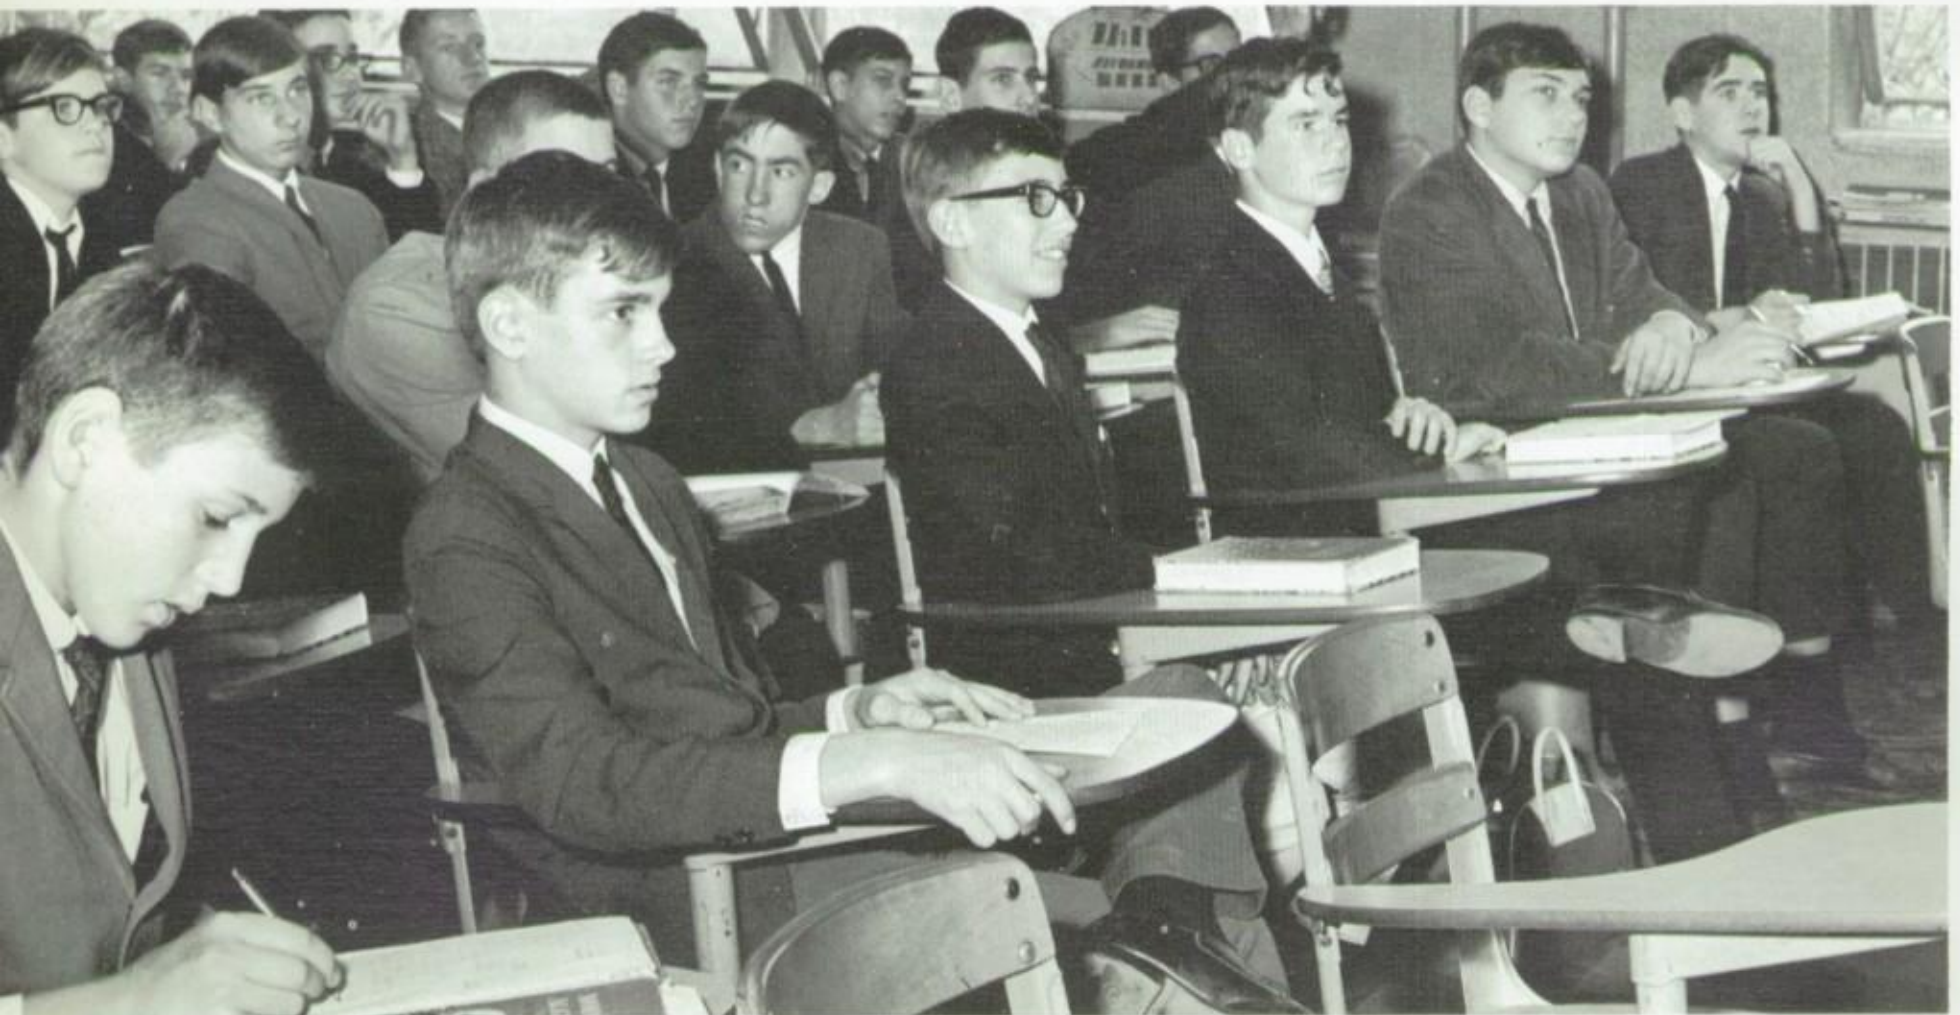

The class of 1970 entered Bonner this year amid an air of radical change in the school curriculum. This year's Freshmen will be the first to complete their stay at Bonner under the new system of sectioning and grading. After having been subjected to the wrath of the unmerciful computer, the newcomers were prone to bellow through the halls with cries of frustration.

The newly heralded class boasts the largest enrollment of any other Freshman class, and they have lived up to Bonner traditions in proportion to their size. Of course, much of the merit of their accomplishments can be accredited to their moderator, Fr. O'Rourke, O.S.A.

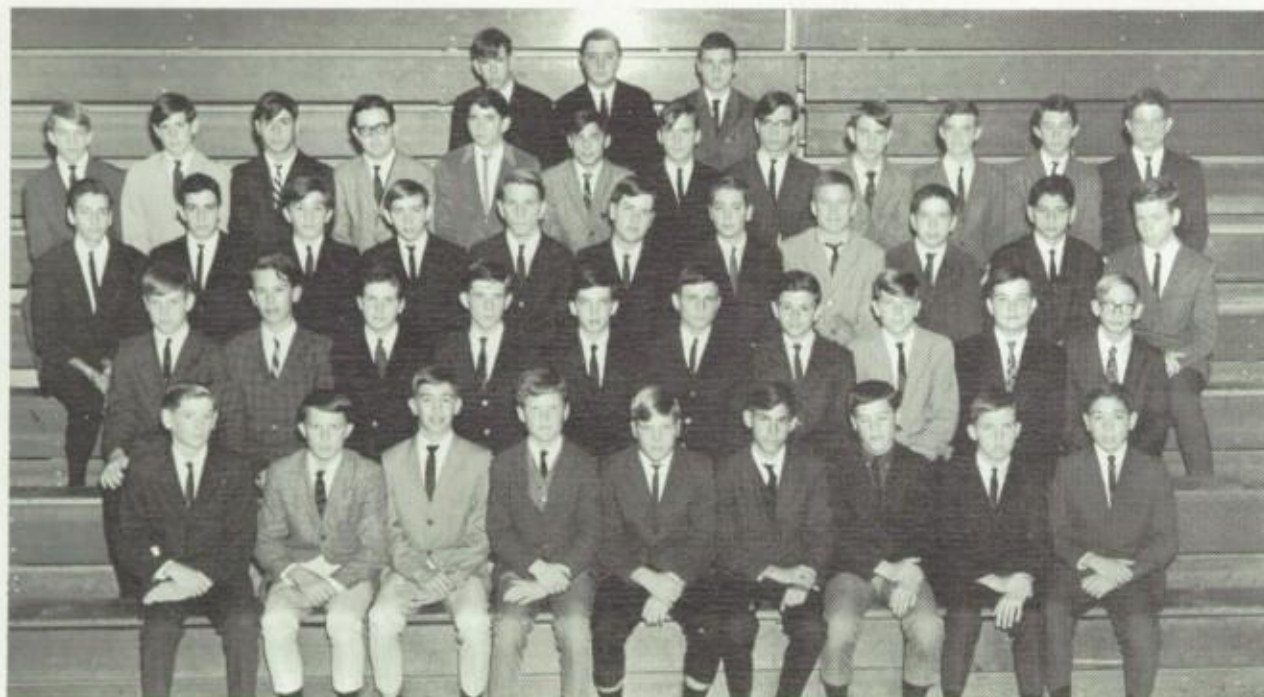

The Freshman class is only beginning to be felt at Bonner. In future years as Sophomores and upperclassmen, the frosh of '67 will proceed to make themselves known.

Utilizing a religious advantage, these students receive Our Lord before their lunch period, and thus put themselves on a better spiritual basis.

FRESHMEN

"I wonder why sister didn't tell us how?", broadcasts from these intrigued freshman faces as the solution to a quadratic equation confronts them.

Detaining themselves for a few minutes after dismissal, these students take advantage of our fine library facilities.

Continuously moving forward toward their goal of success, Bonner's Sophomores have proved their ability as fine men and talented students. Thus far they have lived up to all expectations and, in a few years, we shall view with pride the height of achievement and learning which they will have reached. The contributions of the Sophomore Class have been an influencing factor in the school this year. On the basis of their past actions, it is felt that they will be well qualified to assume their places as the future leaders of Monsignor Bonner High School.

Having broken the sound barrier, the Junior Class successfully soared to the brink of its Senior year. The whimpers of Freshmen days and bellows of Sophomore times have matured to an influential filibuster. The Juniors' vibrant enthusiasm has elicited great esteem from the faculty and the rest of the student body. Caught in a whirlwind of change, the class of '68 sometimes broadcast wonderment and confusion, but these perplexities will vanish as the future years unfold.

Increasing athletic participation has manufactured thundering victories, raining glory and beneficial acknowledgement on individuals and on the school. A general interest in all activities by this year's Juniors has fostered a growing Spirit in Bonner High.

Next year the halls will ring to the tune of the class of '68 as their underclass years echo away.

Always a crowd of anxious purchasers huddles around the threshold of Mr. Jacobs' hidden realm, the Book Store.

JUNIORS

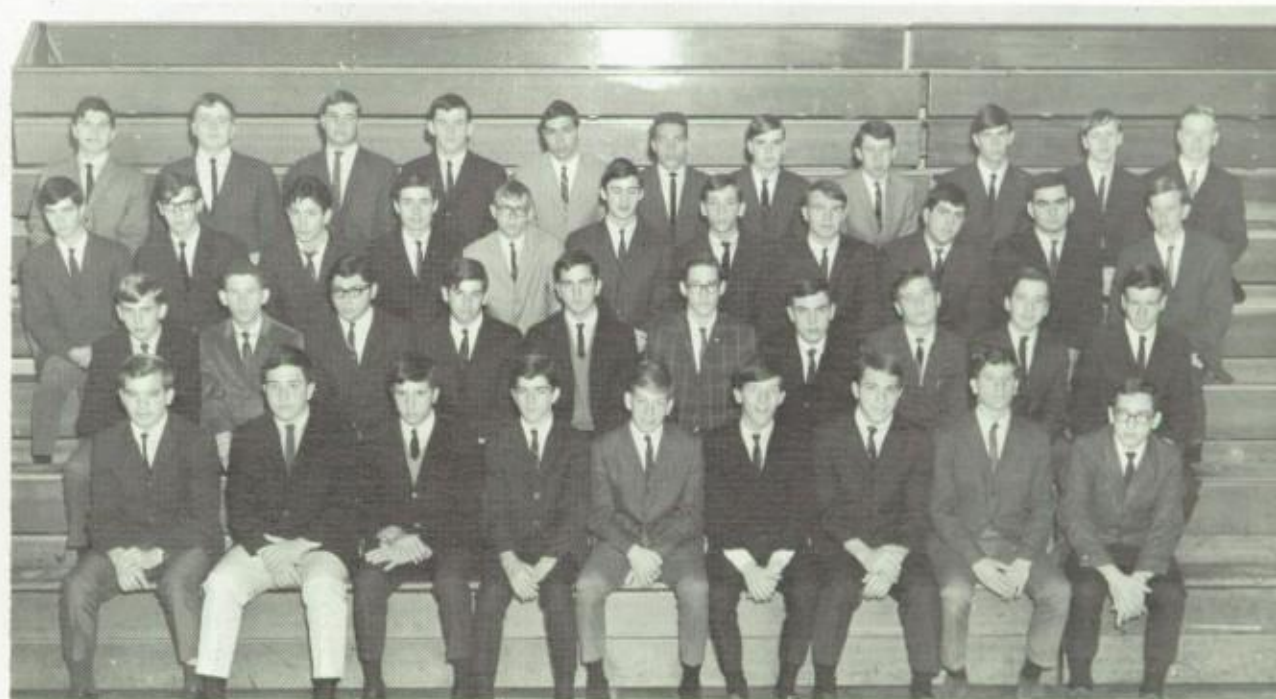

These students exhibit the competitive spirit among classes fostered by the Intramural Program, and heightened by the sportsmanship of good Christian gentlemen.

SENIORS

The Class of 1967 has been one of the most spirited groups ever to attend Bonner. Throughout its four years this class has led the student body in a steadily increasing rise in support of all school activities. Besides its outstanding spirit, this year's senior class has also displayed exceptional academic ability and athletic prowess, while setting a standard for all future classes to follow. Possessing these qualities, the members of the Class of 1967 can be assured of nothing but success in the lives ahead of them.

A genuine sense of gratitude is one manifestation of thought concerning the senior moderator, Rev. Roger Hanouille, O.S.A. His unselfishness and friendship, which have often gone unnoticed, have been instrumental in making our stay at Bonner an enjoyable one. Father's capability has been demonstrated in the various aspects of our high school life, from the academic, to the social, to the spiritual. He has earned the admiration of all in helping us through our studies. He has proven himself to be completely efficient in handling social affairs, particularly the dances. The most important dances were, of course, the Junior and Senior Proms, and it was largely through Father Hanouille's efforts that such huge successes were made possible. His door has never been closed to any Senior who was desirous of his spiritual advice.

Many Seniors will be going on to receive further education. Others will be going directly into the world. No matter what road they take, they will always be able to look back upon their four years at Bonner and remember with warm appreciation the leadership and responsibility that was borne by their moderator.

The Senior Class of 1967 was indeed fortunate in having Father Hanouille serve as its moderator.

Father Roger Hanouille, our class moderator, between puffs on his familiar pipe, pauses from his Latin readings to reconsider some details on preparations for the Senior Prom.

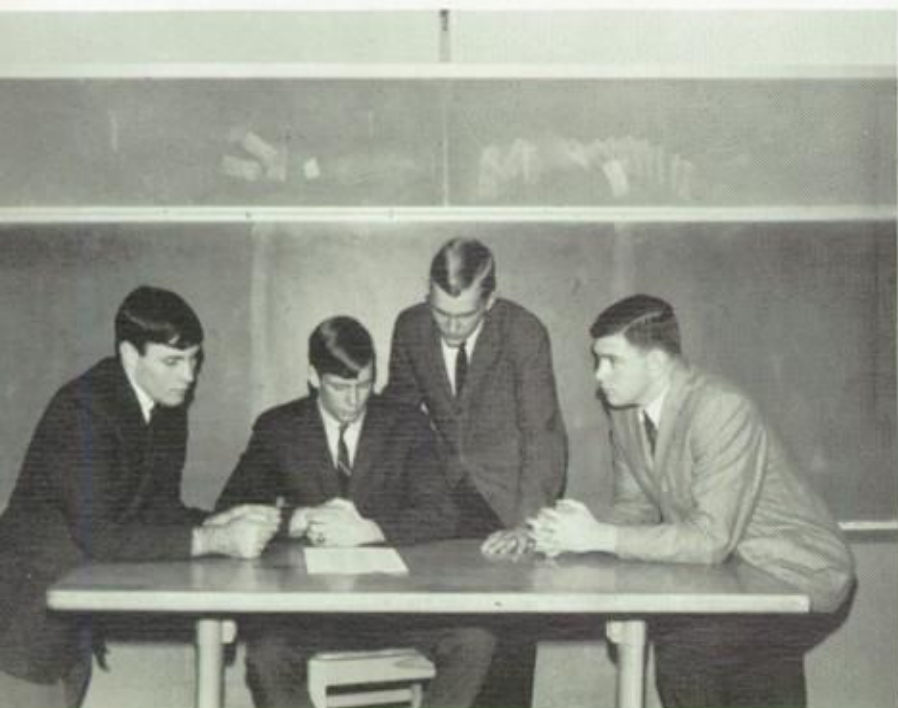

CLASS MODERATOR

These men are the leaders responsible for the proper function of the Senior Class. The effectiveness of their administration has been manifested in the many accomplishments of the Seniors. From left to right, they are: Thomas Dougherty, James McLaughlin, Fr. Hanouille (Moderator), Robert Colman, and Thomas MacCrory.

The Senior Class officers eagerly examine their long-awaited rings. This year the officers assumed new responsibilities, unprecedented in Bonner history, such as conducting the senior lunch period and assemblies.

The class officers seemed to be engaged in a rather puzzling problem. Whatever it is, they are certain to solve it as the senior class would expect them to do.

CLASS CONDUCTORS

ROBERT KEVIN BARRY

Bob has been one of the most active students at Bonner. His role included cheerleader, Student Council worker, and President of the B. B. C., the school's largest organization. Perhaps his greatest contribution to the class of '67 has been his tremendous spirit for all Bonner activities.

FRANCIS BERNARD CALLAHAN

Serving as editor-in-chief, Frank has worked constantly to make the Bonner Bulletin one of the best high school publications in the area. He also excelled in the classroom, ranking in the top ten of our class, and was chosen salutatorian for the graduation exercises.

ANGELO MICHAEL CAPUZZI

Also one of the top students in the class of '67, Angelo has been a member of our first Hi-Q team, and has played an active role in the B.B.C. Moreover, he served as a Commissioner of Intramurals, and was responsible for arranging the schedules for each sport.

JAMES JOSEPH CARLIN

An excellent runner for both the Cross Country and the Track teams, Jim served Bonner with outstanding loyalty. As Vice-President of the Student Council, he worked endlessly to boost school spirit. He was an active member of the B.B.C. for four years.

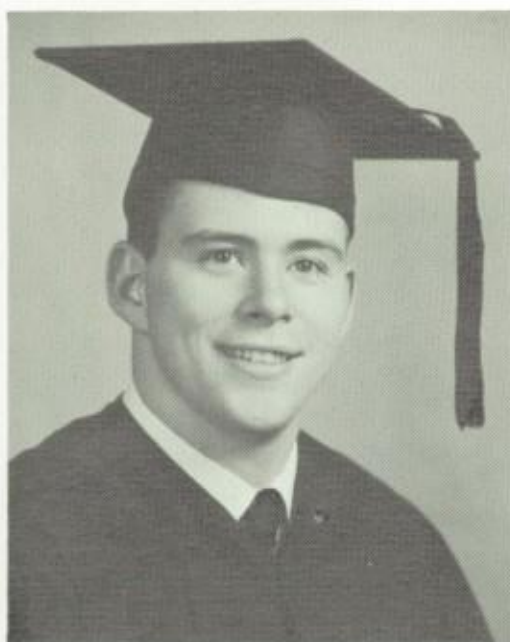

STEPHEN LEWIS DAHM

An exceptional rebounder for the varsity basketball team, Steve has contributed not only his ability but also a unique school spirit both on and off the court.

MICHAEL JOSEPH DAVIS

Head of the Stage Crew for three years, Mike has spent many long hours providing the background for our plays and musicals, and has designed numerous decorations for dances held in the gym. His consistent service to Bonner merits him a high position among his classmates.

THOMAS JOSEPH DOUGHERTY

Few students have commanded the respect and friendship of their classmates as has Tom. A fine athlete in both football and basketball, he has an outstanding record as section and class officer and in organizations such as the Student Council.

OUTSTANDING SENIORS

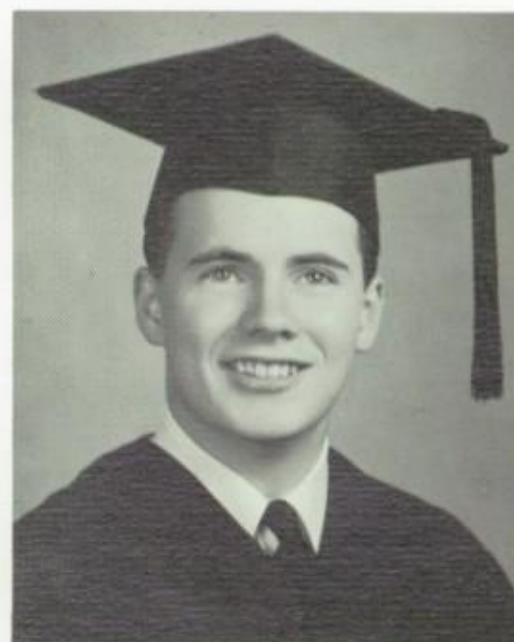

WILLIAM ANTHONY DOYLE

Abundant enthusiasm for everything concerning Bonner characterized Bill in his four years here. In scholastic and extracurricular activities, he has been one of the most active students at Bonner. Chairman of the B.B.C.'s Orphans' Committee is only one of the numerous tasks he performed as a true Friar.

MARIO ANTHONY ERCOLE

One of the top students of the class, Mario exemplified the scholastic atmosphere of our school. In addition, he contributed his efforts to the yearbook, the Spectator, and the B.B.C. and participated in intramurals and other activities.

WILLIAM WALTER FINNEGAN

His service to the library and the class of '67 marks Bill as a top member of his class. His contributions to the dance and prom committees stretch throughout all four years. He maintained an excellent record in Bonner's honor program.

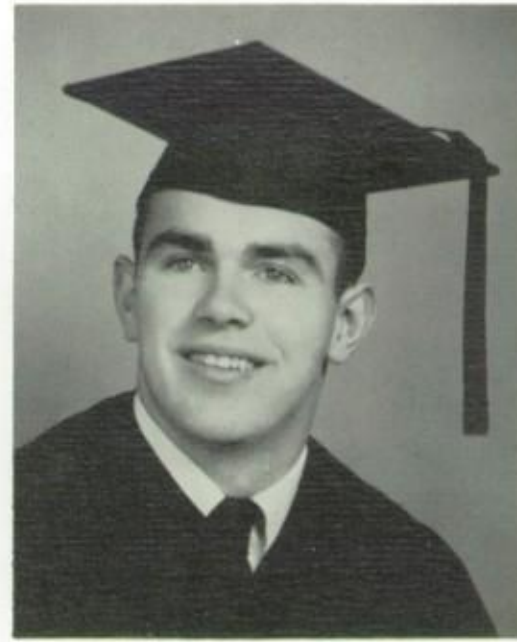

JOHN JOSEPH HARTNETT

John's contributions to the B.B.C., the yearbook, and the dance and prom committee has given him a well-merited place among his classmates. His four years at Bonner provide record enough of the time and energy he has devoted to make the class of '67 one of Bonner's best.

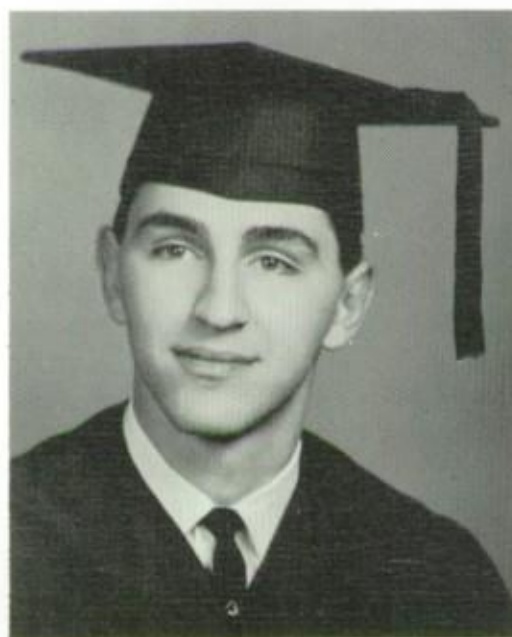

JOSEPH EDWARD HAUGHEY

An excellent musician, Joe has performed regularly with the Concert and the Dance bands since freshman year. He was a member of the All-Catholic Band for two consecutive years. Aside from music, Joe is a master at studies, and a four-year member of the Honors program.

WILLIAM FRANCIS HUTTON

Bill, an exceptional athlete, played two sports, football and baseball. His popularity among fellow students was evidenced by his election to Student Council President. His work in this and other organizations in the school merited him the Optimist Club's "Boy of the Year" award, a well-deserved honor.

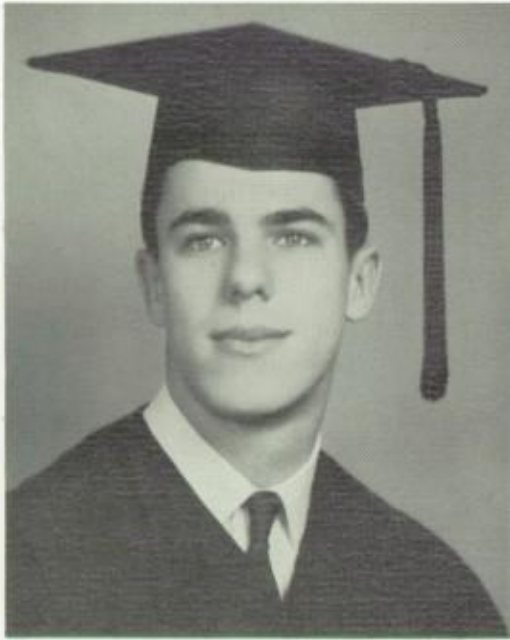

FREDERICK ROBERT MAGLIONE

Fred has been an unparalleled performer for Bonner's track team during the past four years. In addition to establishing the Catholic League record in the high jump event, he has also distinguished himself in another way — loyalty. His abilities and his loyalty to Bonner have written for him an impressive page in our school annals.

DENNIS MICHAEL McNULTY

Dennis was a loyal and dedicated member of our Student Council. His honor and pride in being a Friar was evident in all his work. He played on the '67 golf team and became one of its top performers.

THOMAS MICHAEL MULLIN

Tom has been recognized by Faculty and Student Body as a fine example of Bonner's best students. He has excelled in studies, in loyalty to all of the school's undertakings and as a successful yearbook editor. His devotion to God, country and his school will bring him much success in the future.

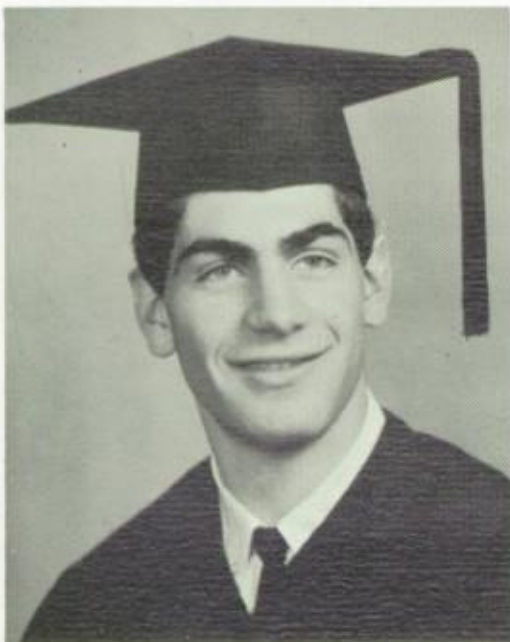

JAMES CHARLES O'BRIEN

For his fine performances on the football field and as captain of the crew team, combined with his role as a four-year honor student, Jim was chosen the Evening Bulletin's "Scholar-Athlete" from our school. He also worked as a member of the St. Edmond's Guild and the B.B.C.

JAMES FRANCIS SELFRIDGE

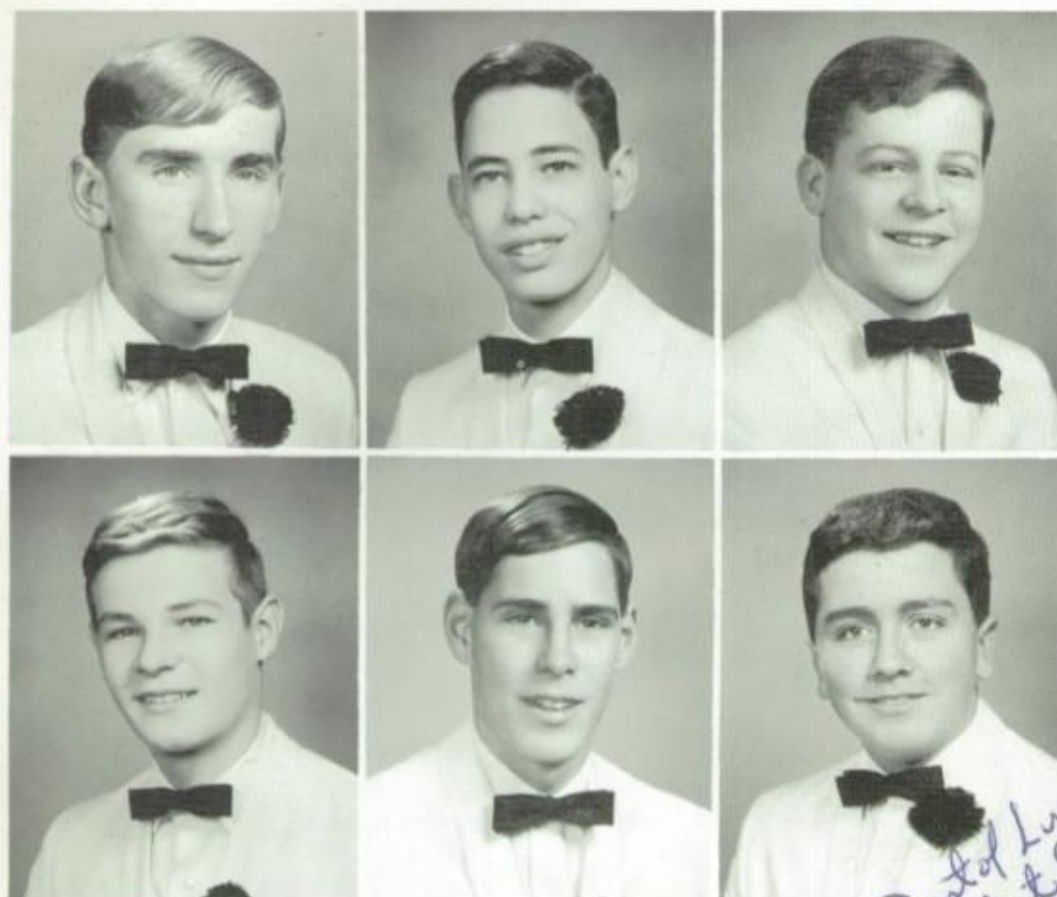

A four-year member of Bonner's track team, and a good student, Jim has gained the admiration and respect of those associated with our school. As Vice-President of the Minutemen, he set an example of the dedicated Friar, one devoted to God, his school and his fellow students.

NICHOLAS JOSEPH SCOGNA

Nick's talents as a basketball player especially noted for excellent shooting won him a spot on the All-Catholic squad's first team. A solid athlete and a good student, he is surely an exceptional member of the class of '67.

The class of 1967 deeply mourns the passing of three of its members. These boys, Thomas Purner, William Vettors, and John Goodwin, set an example which all Bonner students should follow. They were all well-rounded pupils and due to this fact, they were a credit to both their families and their school. It was God's plan that these three men be called to share in His eternal reward early in life. It is unfortunate that they cannot be present to share in the graduation of their class, but certainly their absence will be felt by many. Our class wishes to express its thanks for the achievements which each individually accomplished during his short span at our school and we feel deeply honored in being able to say that these boys were truly gentlemen of Bonner.

GRADUATION

The final sounds

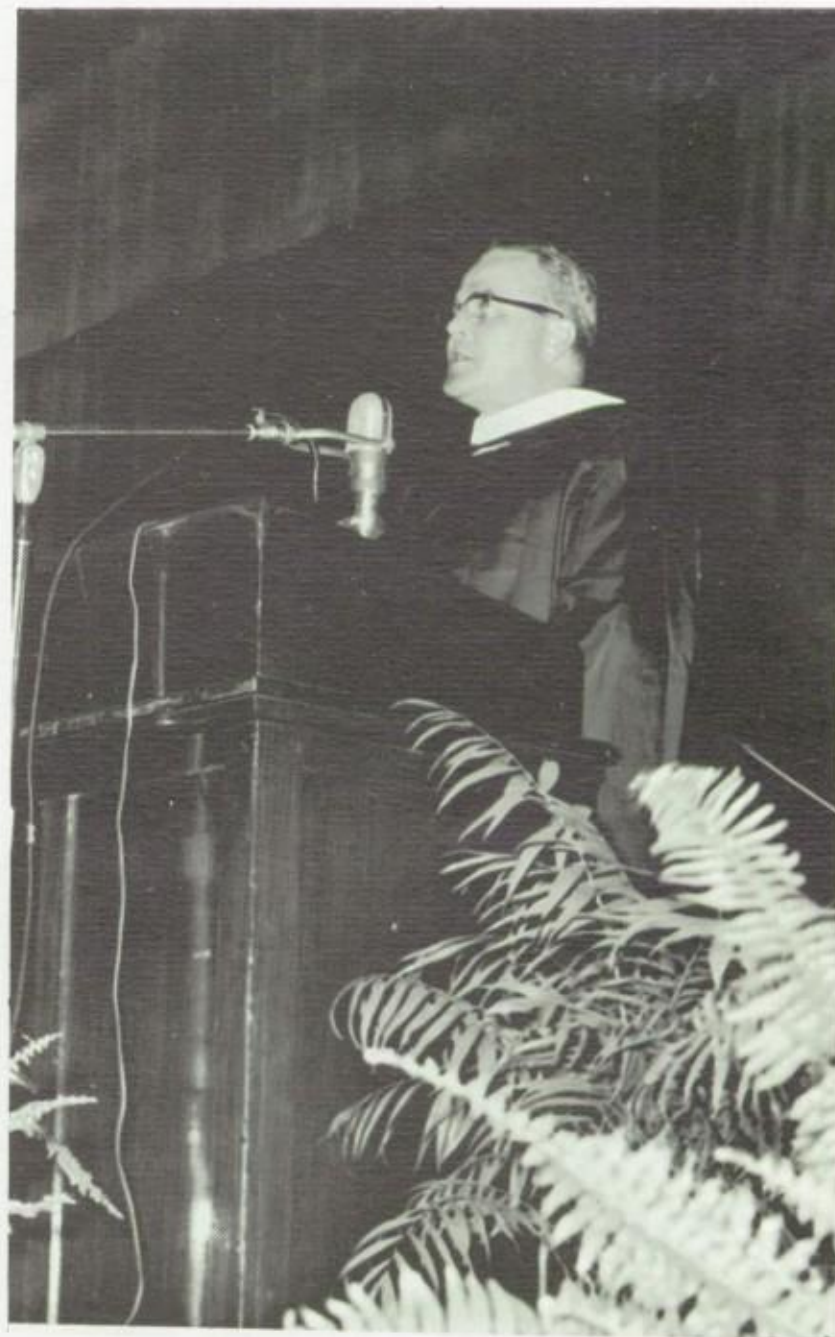

Graduates look on as the Baccalaureate Mass is celebrated in their honor. It is the hope of all that these students will go on to lead a good Catholic life as they did while at Bonner.

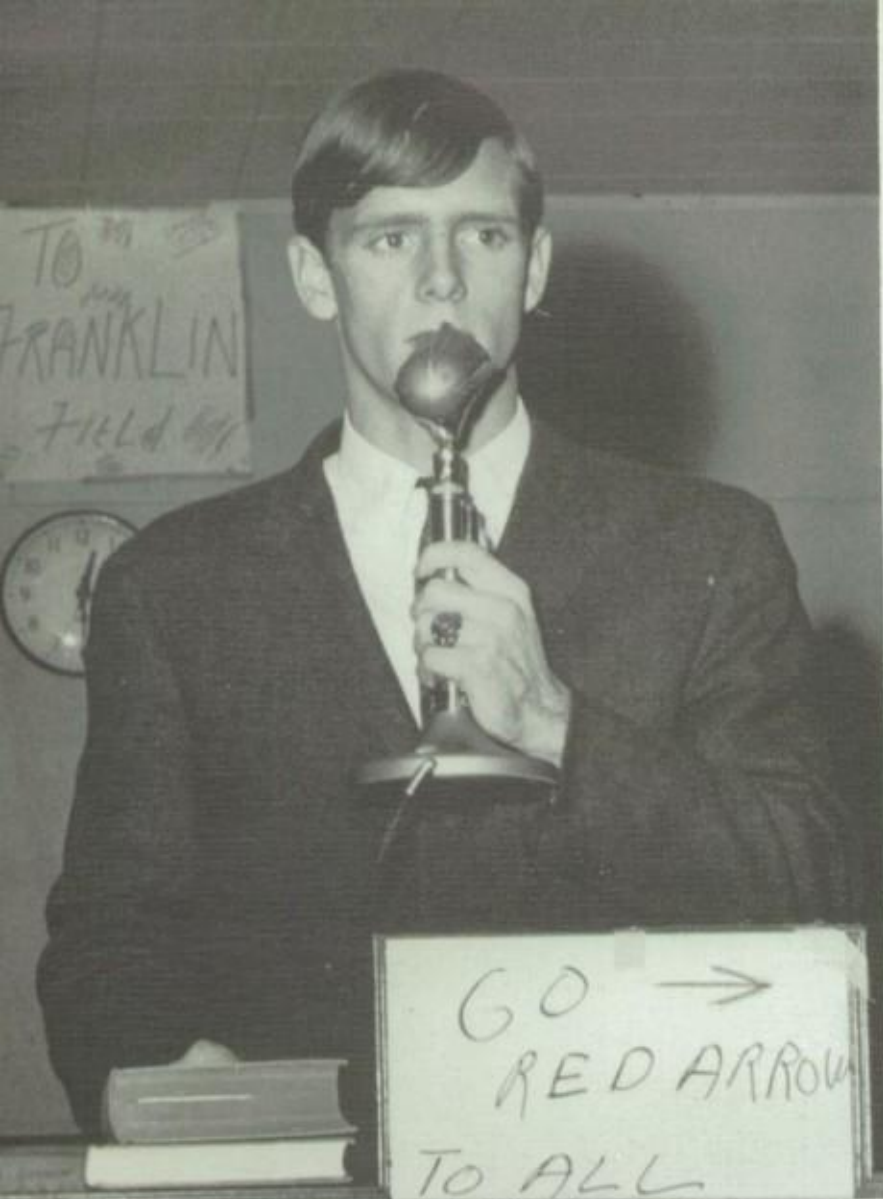

Graduation Day is a time of joyful reminiscence of our high school days. In the few moments during the Commencement exercises, the years at Bonner flash through each senior's mind, the highlights remaining a second longer. Perhaps these memories include a teacher's fifty minute lecture, a cheer-filled gymnasium, or the "absence of sound" in an assembly. But as the final bars of "Hail Alma Mater" resound throughout Convention Hall, each senior realizes that his sojourn at Bonner has terminated and that today he will commence his life in our modern world. Maybe he will continue the pursuit of knowledge in college or will gain valuable experience by working. In any case, the educational, social, and moral standards instilled in every Bonner student provide a background which will enable each graduate to overcome the many problems which face all men.

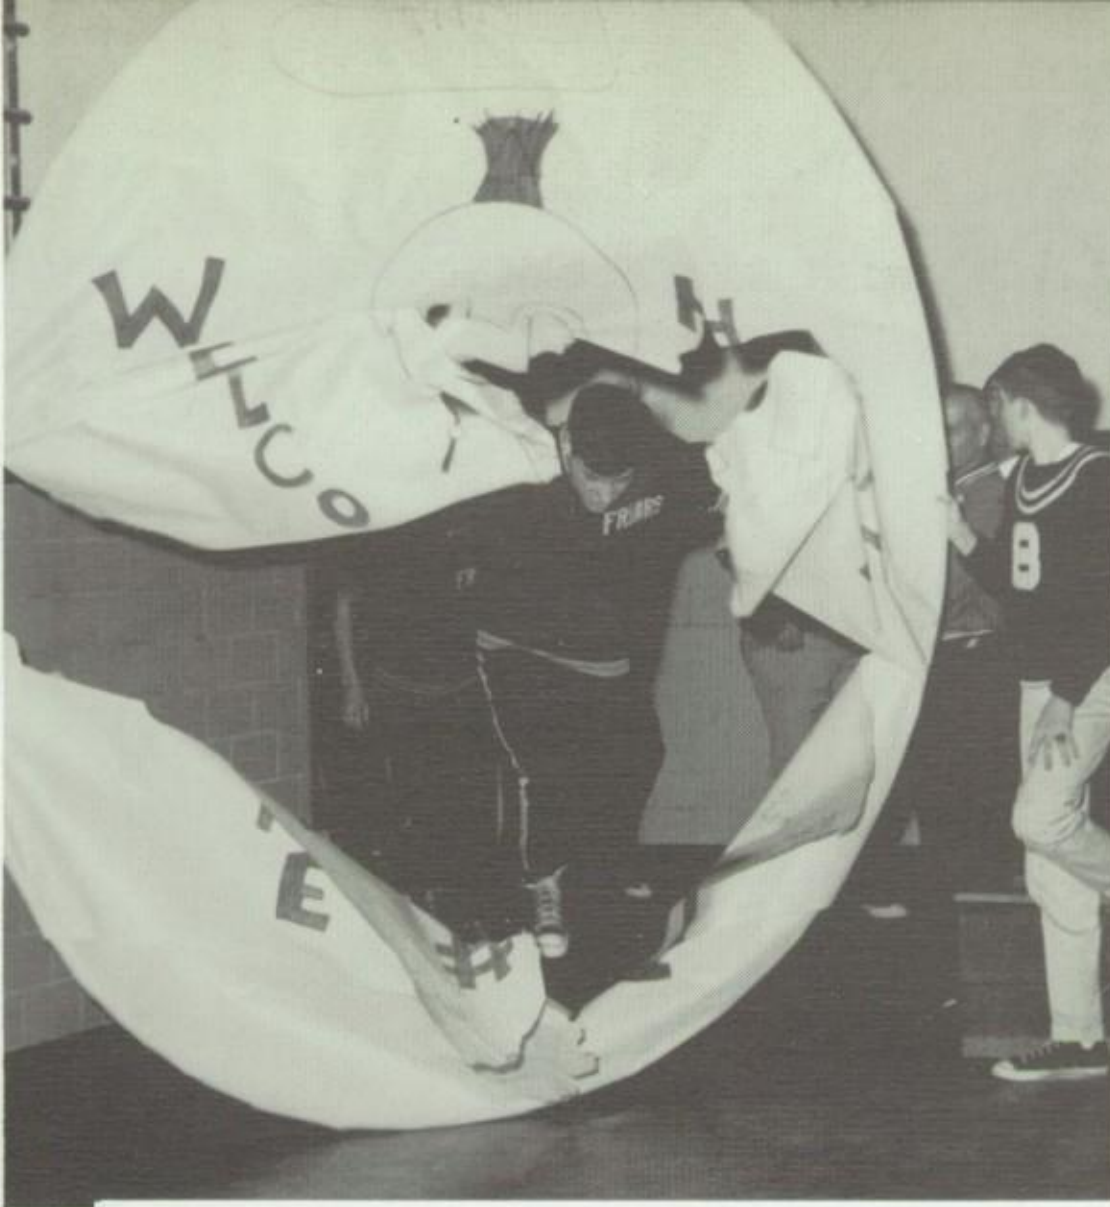

◀ The termination of a life at Bonner marks the commencement of a new life. This new life is much broader than the life at Bonner; in fact, the fields of the new life are as numerous as the graduates.

The Seniors partake of the spiritual nourishment of the final celebration of the Class Mass. The Baccalaureate Mass is the culmination of their endeavors to prepare themselves for the difficulties which are sure to follow in ensuing years.

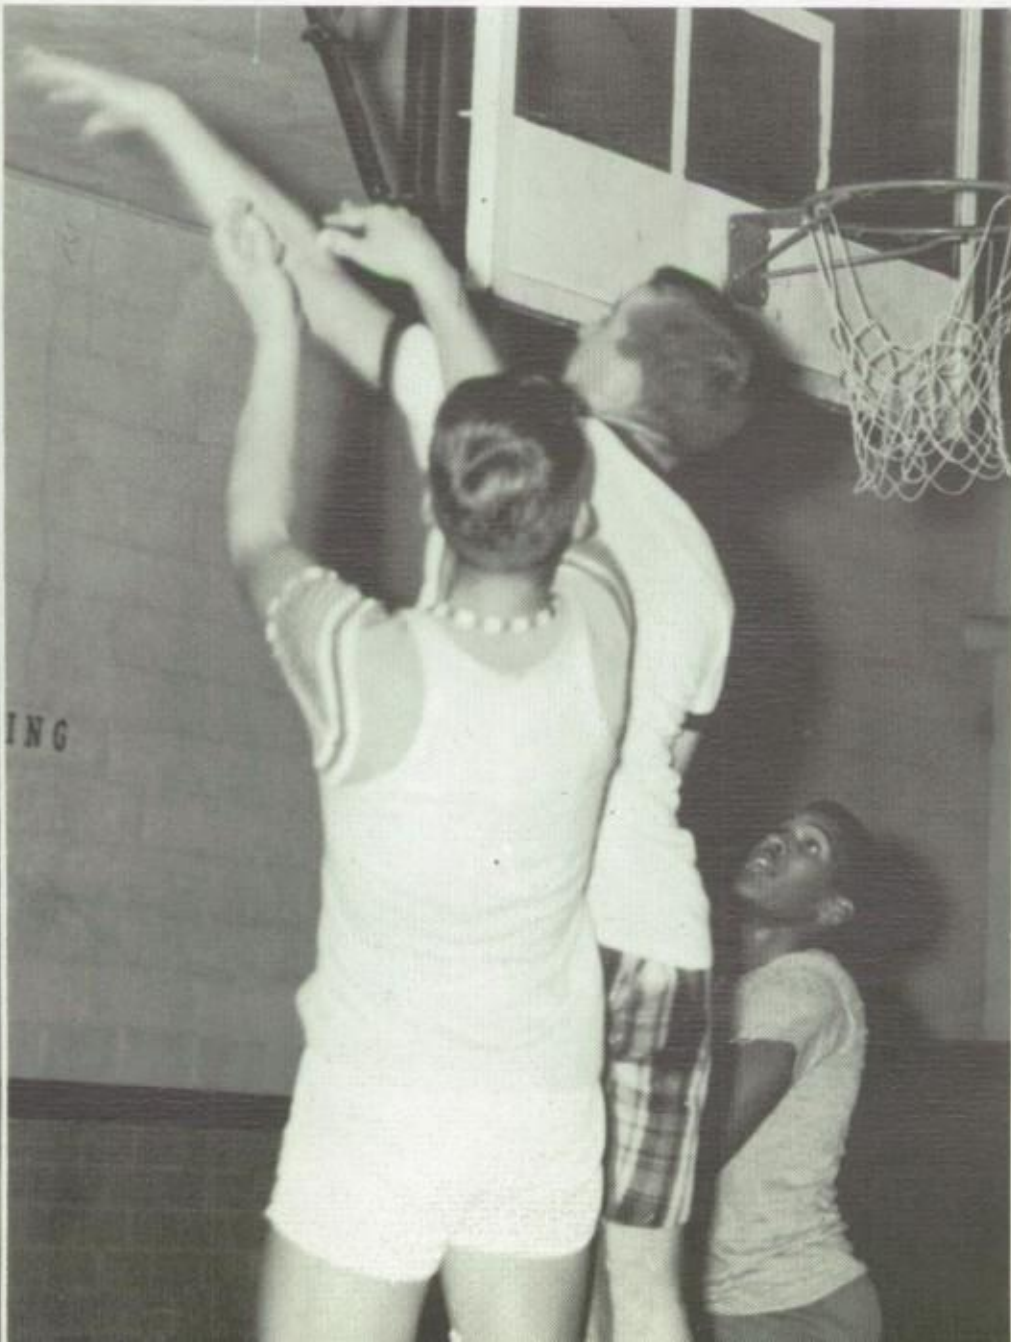

Fr. Mahoney addresses the Senior Class for the final time. In his sermon, Father exhorts the students to put their education to good use not only for their personal enrichment, but also for the betterment of society.

A closing consummate echo into eternity.

A tacit reminder from the patron of our school.
